Ace Whiffs 15 In World Series Tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-hander Sandy Koufax' record-setting 15 strikeouts and four-run second inning highlighted by John Roseboro's homer carried the Los Angeles Dodgers over the New York Yankees 5-2 today in the opening game of the 1963 World Series.

Koufax allowed six hits in beating the favored defending world champions before a packed house of 69,000 at Yankee Stadium, while the Dodgers battered Series veteran Whitey Ford liberally in the early going.

BEATS ERSKINE

Koufax' strikeout total was one over the previous series record set by Carl Erskine of the Dodgers against the Yankees exactly 10-year-ago—Oct. 2, 1953. The star southpaw, a 25-game winner during the regular season, did not allow a base runner until Elston Howard's single with two out in the fifth and blanked the Yankees until Tom Tresh's two-run homer in the eighth.

Koufax hit the strikeout record by fanning the final bater, pinch hitter Harry Bright.

WHACKS FORD

The Dodgers whacked Ford for four hits in their big second inning, which was capped by Roseboro's three-run homer. Former Yankee Bill Skowron singled in the first Dodger run, and drove in their final run with a single in the third inning.

The Series continues here tomorrow with left-handers Al Downing of the Yankees and Johnny Podres of the Dodgers scheduled to pitch.

Narcotics Dumped In Pacific Ocean

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement today dumped narcotics seized in criminal cases into the Pacific Ocean.

It was estimated that the drugs were worth at least 1.3 million dollars.

The health and safety code allows the bureau to give such drugs to state hospitals, but narcotics agents said physicians usually refuse them because they cannot be sure that they are not contaminated.

The drugs disposed of today had been collected from numerous criminal cases over a period of years.

Tito Plans Visit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Fairmont Hotel said today it has reservations Oct. 18-20 for Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, but other sources said deails of his trip were yet to be worked out.

MANY THANKS

for paying your newspaperboy promptly

It's tough for a youngster to "come back some other time" for payment. As a young businessman, your I-J carrier boy is trying to do a job for you, rain or shine, on time. He really appreciates your paying him the first time he calls to collect. Keep it up, won't you.

Increase Of Rats In Marin Is Labeled A 'Real Problem'

Rats are becoming a "real problem" in Marin, William L. Desmond, county chief of the environmental sanitation division, said today.

Hundreds of rats have been "washed from their nests" in the current dredging of Mill Valley's small craft harbor.

Rats have been reported running in the outside breezeways at Tamalpais High School.

They are reported in increasing numbers in Tiburon and Sausalito and have been seen in yard and landscaped areas of residential sections of Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo.

"I think rats in Greenbrae area are coming from the Corte Madera Del Presidio Creek and where the boardwalk is," the health officer said, "as well as near San Quentin where a new boat harbor is being developed."

Desmond said his department is called daily with reports that rats have been seen walking in the streets and heard in peoples basements.

He said hundreds are being drowned in Mill Valley's harbor but that hundreds are escaping to higher ground, through creeks and sewers, to build new nests around homes.

He said "there is always imminent disease potential where rodents are found."

Most of the rats are Norway gray rats but there are some German browns, Desmond said.

He said that his department refers rodent problems to the department of agriculture in the Civic Center, San Rafael.

Long range control, Desmond said is best through "poisoning the sewers and the rats line of supply." The county has no such program, he added. At present the department of agriculture aids control pertaining to farm lands and has a modified program, making available bait and boxes at a cost to home owners and city agencies.

MUSCLING UP RED TAG VALUES

Carrol Varner, Marin champion weight-lifter from San Rafael, turns on the power to demonstrate the weighty values on display during Red Tag Days, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Earl Popovich of Corte Madera, properly impressed by both biceps and bargains, lends the delighted touch, symbolizing consumers who will find San Rafael stores "hoisting" bargains of high quality merchandise. The three-day sales event, sponsored by the Retail Merchants Committee of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, is advertised in a special Red Tag Days section of today's Independent-Journal.

Mill Valley Councilmen Plan To Fire Almcrants

Three Slate Action For Oct. 21 Meeting

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Three Mill Valley city councilmen said today that as things now stand they plan to fire City Mgr. A. E. Almcrants at the Oct. 21 meeting of the council.

"I think the present intention is to fire him but there is always a possibility of working out some accommodation," said Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks.

"I'm inclined to go along with that vote on the facts I have," said Councilman William M. Secor. He added he is not through looking over the past history in the matter.

Councilman George D. Monardo said "with facts available to me now, I would have no choice but to do so."

Unable to be reached were Councilmen George Blackwell who is in New Orleans and Councilman Michael Wornum who was in Berkeley where he is attending courses in city administration and planning at the University of California. Wornum has been the lone councilman against the resignation of Almcrants.

PUBLIC HEARING

Almcrants said today he intends to ask for a public hearing under terms of the city manager ordinance. The ordinance reads that councilmen must give Almcrants 30 days notice and that the city manager can demand a public hearing within seven days of his dismissal.

Almcrants submitted his resignation last Friday over "pressures" and "disharmony" with the council. Monday night, following overwhelming support from citizens at a special council meeting, Almcrants withdrew his resignation.

He said today he has received "a steady amount" of telephone calls in his support.

CRIES OF 'RECALL'

Though members of the large audience had cried "recall" many times at the Monday meeting, there was no known drive for recall of any councilman today.

"I wouldn't want to even talk about recall at this time," said William A. Hamilton, former mayor and real estate broker. "We will watch and see," he said. Hamilton had lead discussion Monday and at that time asked that Sheeks resign, not Almcrants.

Real estate broker Paul Crowley, who Monday urged Almcrants to withdraw his resignation, said today, "I firmly believe we should protect the name of Mill Valley.

DIDN'T LISTEN

"We would prefer to have this settled amicably between Al and the council. I recommended Al withdraw his resignation and give everybody a chance to cool down and give council an opportunity to express to us why they were so adamant in their position toward him. Then we are in a position to see what we want to do."

Crowley said he could not

Civic Center Second Stage Study Starts

Space analysis studies have started for the second stage of the Civic Center building, which would more than double the size of the present Frank Lloyd Wright-designed structure at Santa Venetia.

Architect Aaron Green, representing the Wright Foundation, has sent letters to various department heads asking for staff and space needs through 1980. The tentative target date for completion of the second stage is late 1968, if plans proceed on schedule.

Financing will be on a pay-as-you-go basis, with the county setting aside funds each year. Accumulation of funds started during the last fiscal year.

The total cost of the second stage will not be known until construction plans are drawn up, but the tentative estimate for total cost is between five and six million dollars.

Studies for the second stage were authorized last June when the late Supervisor Chairman Walter R. Castro sent a letter to the Wright Foundation giving the go-ahead for a space analysis.

The second stage would extend the present building northward to a hill. It would house the courts and jail and other county offices that are located at the courthouse in San Rafael.

'ORDERS DEFIED'

Sausalito Irate Over High Fence

Sausalito City Councilmen made it clear last night they are irate about the seven-foot fence at the Cote D'Azur apartments on Alexander Avenue, built in defiance of their orders.

"Let's remind them we authorized a four-and-a-half foot fence and ask them to cut off the top," said Mayor Paul Micou.

"We should make it known that builders can't come and make jackasses out of the city council," said Councilman Carl W. Gabrielson.

"We can do that by ourselves," replied Councilman Michael Harris. "What I object to is making jackasses out of the City of Sausalito."

The city's concern over landscaping at the apartment house has been aired for the past several months after residents in the area complained about the blocking of the view.

The council decided to notify the Markham Corp., owners of the apartments, to meet requirements. If there is no response, City Atty. Leland H. Jordan will be authorized to take legal action, Micou said.

Trial Of White Men In Bombings Tuesday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala (AP) — Trial for three white men on charges connected with Birmingham racial bombings was set today for next Tuesday afternoon.

Meanwhile, state investigators reported finding more than 100 sticks of dynamite in a wooded area just north of the city limits.

The men, charged with illegally possessing dynamite, are John W. Hall, 36; Robert E. Chambliss, 59, and Charles Cagle, 22, all of the Birmingham area.

They are free on $300 bond, the usual amount in misdemeanor cases.

Hall was arrested late yesterday; the others were taken into custody Sunday.

A habeas corpus hearing scheduled for Cagle today was dismissed when the judge noted the hearing was no longer of use since Cagle had already been granted bond.

Col. Al Lingo, commander of the State Highway Patrol, said last night that state investigators found 133 sticks of dynamite in a wooden crate and two and one half sticks lying nearby in a wooded area in North Birmingham, just outside the city limits. He hailed the discovery as significant in the investigation of bombings.

"We are stepping in the right direction. We are making progress."

The Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, former Birmingham minister and president of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, charged that the investigation appeared to be "a sham on the part of law agencies, in an effort to soothe the national conscience and placate Negroes."

Shuttlesworth issued a statement criticizing the investigation shortly after a circuit court jury—which included one Negro — found him guilty of parading without a permit on Good Friday and fined him $75.

Judge George Lewis Bailes added a term of 90 days to the fine. Shuttlesworth's attorneys appealed the sentence and he was released under $2,500 bond.

Shuttlesworth noted that his bond was $2,000 while that of the men charged with possession of dynamite was $300.

"Where are the FBI and the federal experts brought in — and what part did they play in this? Is this the best the nation can expect of the combined efficient forces of the federal, state and local law agencies?" Shuttlesworth asked.

Presidential advisors Kenneth C. Royal and Earl Blaik planned another round of conferences with white and Negro leaders today.

Russ People Hear Of Space Proposal

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today gave the Soviet public its first news of President John F. Kennedy's proposal 12 days ago for a joint U.S.-Soviet Union moon exploration effort.

The information appeared in a reprint in Pravda of a recent column by Walter Lippmann praising Kennedy's proposal.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, made no comment on the proposal.

Hurricane Intensity Is Increasing

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Hurricane Flora, showing signs of increased intensity and size, churned over central Caribbean shipping lanes north of Venezuela today and threatened southernmost sections of Hispaniola with gale winds.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at San Juan, Puerto Rico, said the dangerous storm would pass about 120 miles south of the Peninsula of Barahona, a section of the Dominican Republic jutting to the south, early tonight.

Typhoon Heading Toward Iwo Jima

TOKYO (UPI)—Typhoon Judy, already the second largest of the season and still gathering strength, was boring straight in on Iwo Jima, the island of World War II fame, today.

Beyond, if the massive storm pursues its present course, lies the Pacific coast of central Japan with its big population centers.

Judy, whose center winds have climbed from 98 to 155 miles an hour in the last two days, was located about 100 miles southeast of Iwo Jima late today, moving northwest at 15 miles an hour.

Berber Mutineers Defy Ben Bella

ALGIERS (AP)—Berber mutineers manned cannon on Algerian mountain ridges today, vowing to defy President Ahmed Ben Bella even at the cost of civil war. Ben Bella forces announced plans to arm vigilante committees to fight, if necessary with loyal Army troops.

The announcement was made by Hadj Ben Alla, chief organizer of Ben Bella's ruling Front of National Liberation.

"The vigilante committees will safeguard the revolution and fight against counterrevolution," Ben Alla said.

Mayor Yorty Is 54

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A crowd of 1,200 sang "Happy Birthday to You" to Mayor Samuel W. Yorty at his 54th birthday party Tuesday at the Hollywood Palladium.

The party, arranged by a committee of 44, featured only one speaker—Yorty. In answer to a toast Yorty remarked that he did not know what history would say of his administration, except that "the first two years have been very hectic."

'Not Running'

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Associate Justice Arthur Goldberg discounted yesterday published reports he may be chosen as President John F. Kennedy's running mate in 1964.

He told a news conference he is "out of politics in every way, shape and manner. I'm not available for that office or any other."

Debate On Church

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Fifteen cardinals and bishops addressed the Ecumenical Council today as the council fathers debated in detail a document defining the nature of the church.

Today's third meeting of the new council session heard a plea for a clearer statement that the church is not seeking earthly power and has come "not to dominate but to serve."

It also heard long arguments on the exact relationship between St. Peter and the other apostles 20 centuries ago—a subject which has an important bearing on present-day relationship between the pope and bishops.

Killed By Propeller

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The propeller of an airplane struck and killed a crewman of the aircraft carrier Bennington in an accident aboard the ship yesterday.

Airman James Henson was on duty on the flight deck when he was hit by the starboard propeller of a two-engine submarine tracker plane as it taxied across the deck.

S.P. Seeks Change

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Southern Pacific maintained yesterday that if it is to continue its present commuter schedules on the Peninsula, it will have to increase fares 30 per cent.

The company would prefer an alternative solution. It is asking a Public Utilities Commission hearing for permission to eliminate five to eight trains. The railroad was expected to complete its testimony today.

Freighter Sinks

LE HAVRE, France (AP) —The 4,608-ton Norwegian freighter Ronda sank in port today after a collision with the 6,103-ton American freighter Lucile Bloomfield. The crew was rescued.

Biggest Military Pay Hike In History Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy signed today, with "great pleasure" a bill granting an average 14.4 per cent pay increase to most of the 2.7 million men and women in the armed forces.

In a cabinet room ceremony, Kennedy used more than a dozen fountain pens to sign the measure, which will cost the government 1.2 billion dollars a year. It is the biggest military pay boost in history.

Kennedy said that, while he is impressed with new and powerful weapons, he is mindful of the fact that it is men who "manage them, control them, and have the will to direct them."

He said Americans in uniform serve with sacrifice and dedication, and that, on them, "The peace of this world of ours and its security depend in good measure."

Members of Congress from both parties and a sprinkling of high military officers were among the two dozen official witnesses at the ceremony.

After signing the law, Kennedy distributed the fountain pens to the Congress members present.

Congress completed its work yesterday when the House passed the bill setting up the new military pay scales by a 332-5 vote.

Two Boys Set Crippled Girl On Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An 8-year-old girl, crippled by polio, was hospitalized today with painful burns over 40 per cent of her body—the victim of malicious teasing by two schoolmates because she wore braces on her legs.

The victim, Cathryn Reeves, had been the target of taunts from two young boys for several weeks because of the braces. The taunts reached a climax yesterday when one of the boys tossed a book of flaming matches at her and reduced her flower-print dress to ashes.

"She couldn't do anything but stand there and burn," said an ambulance attendant who rushed her to Mission Emergency Hospital.

Cathryn was reported in fair condition today while police searched for the two boys, believed to be schoolmates of the injured girl.

The girl's mother, Winona Reeves, told police her daughter had complained for several weeks of harassment by the suspect assailants.

Venezuela Crackdown On Reds Nets Arrests

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— President Romulo Betancourt's government says 158 Communists and extreme leftists, including eight congressmen, have been arrested in its crackdown on political terrorism.

The roundup was ordered after a terrorist attack on an excursion train Sunday killed five persons. Planeloads of paratroops arrived in Caracas to reinforce police.

Mosk Gives U.S. 100 Cosa Nostra Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The names of more than 100 suspected California members of the Cosa Nostra have been turned over to federal officials by California Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, but he denied yesterday that "organized crime" exists in the state.

Mosk said 47 names turned over to the state by the Justice Department, but most of them were known to California law enforcement officials.

The California official held a news conference after he met with a Senate investigating committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), and with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Mosk said crime in his state was dominated by "individual entrepeneurs" rather than by an organization such as the Cosa Nostra, but he added that information received from the McClellan committee and Kennedy would be of "great value" to California in fighting crime.

But Mosk said Cosa Nostra member Joseph Valachi had not revealed names of any members not known to Californit officials during testimony before the McClellan committee.

The California attorney general said there were many contacts between suspects in California and Cosa Nostra members in the East. But he said he was "satisfied that there is no organized crime in California in the sense that it exists in other parts of the nation."

"There is no 'Mr. Big'," he said.

Macmillan Moves Back To Offices

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan moved back into No. 10 Downing Street today after a three-year exile while the residence of British prime ministers was rebuilt.

Macmillan has been carrying on his official duties around the corner at Admiralty House since construction firms took over No. 10 in August, 1960.

Bounties were offered by American colonists for Indian scalps during early wars between the two groups.

Dominican Leaders Appeal For U.S. Aid

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Leaders in the Dominican Republic say the country will be bankrupt in three months if the United States and other American nations do not accept the regime that ousted President Juan Bosch.

"From a psychological point of view, maybe we'll last only one month," a high-level government official said in an interview. "Public opinion will deterioriate if we fail to get diplomatic recognition and you might see an uprising inside 30 days. Then we'd get a military dictatorship or a Communist takeover."

Officials in the provisional government, businessmen and foreign diplomats agree that the Dominican future rests in U.S. hands. No one consented to be quoted by name.

Dr. Jose Antonio Bonilla Atiles, ambassador designate to the United States, flew to Washington yesterday in an attempt to get the Dominican Republic invited back into the family of Western Hemisphere nations and win restoration of 50 million dollars a year in U.S. aid.

Government and business leaders attributed the dismal outlook primarily to the cutoff of substantial private investment funds and U.S. aid programs after the military coup a week ago.

They cited these other factors:

The government has barely enough money to keep it running until Dec. 31.

Unemployment in a labor force of about 450,000 has roughly doubled in the last year and stands at 30 per cent. Tourist traffic dropped sharply after the coup.

The military force and national police are a heavy drain on the economy. A reduction of the men in uniform would mean greater unemployment.

Dr. Warren Bilkey, an economist on leave from the University of Notre Dame while working as an adviser to the Dominican government, said an investment incentive law is sorely needed.

Dominican experts trace the dire financial situation to the Trujillo dictatorship. But they say the situation became worse during Bosch's seven-month rule.

Civilian observers are keeping a close eye on Elias Wessin y Wessin, regarded as the country's most powerful military man.

Symphony To Get Acoustical Shell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A new acoustical shell to improve orchestral sounds is being built for the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra's concerts in the War Memorial Opera House.

The $76,000 shell will be ready for the special concert Nov. 29, preceding the regular symphony season, at which Josef Krips will make his first appearance as conductor and musical director.

Philip S. Boone, president of the San Francisco Symphony Assn., which maintains the orchestra, said the shell is 50 feet wide and 31 feet high at the front of the stage. It tapers back a depth of 26 feet to the rear wall, 24 feet high and 41 feet wide.

Ex-Hungary Premier Vows Freedom Fight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ferenc Nagy, the premier who was kicked out of Hungary by the Communists in 1947, says the West should try and get along with the country's Red government.

Nagy, in Pittsburgh to speak at Carnegie Institute of Technology, told newsmen he would continue his efforts to keep the issue of Hungarian freedom before the world.

Cartons Spilled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A downtown intersection was boxed up yesterday when a truck overturned, spilling 37,000 paper cartons. No one was injured seriously, but it took three hours to pick up the boxes.

ARRIVES IN GREECE

Seclusion Expected For President's Wife

COMBINED AP & UPI

ATHENS — Jacqueline Kennedy arrived today aboard a TWA jet airliner to begin a 15-day autumn vacation in Greece.

Her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, awaited her at the airport with U. S. Ambassador Henry R. Labouise.

Mrs. Kennedy and her sister kissed as the U. S. first lady stepped from the plane ramp. Then they left in a U. S. embassy car for a 15-mile drive to Mrs. Kennedy's rented vacation villa at Cavouri on the Saronic Gulf.

A special berth was set up for Mrs. Kennedy for the transatlantic flight. It was the first time TWA had provided a berth for a passenger on one of its superjets, which make the flight in about seven hours. Officials said special permission had to be obtained from the Federal Aviation Agency in Washington.

Secret Service men traveling with Mrs. Kennedy said she asked for oxygen on the trip. They said she was not ill, just very tired, and that the altitude had affected her.

She first gave signs of discomfort on the one hour and 25 minute flight from Rome to Athens. A stewardess said Mrs. Kennedy used only a small amount.

Mrs. Kennedy's visit will include her stay at the rented seaside villa near Athens and a private tour of the colorful Greek islands aboard one of the world's most luxurious yachts, owned by Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis

It was the first outing for Mrs. Kennedy since the death of her third child, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, Aug. 7, less than two days after birth.

No official functions were planned, and Mrs. Kennedy was not scheduled to meet any Greek government or political leaders. Officials of the American Embassy and the Greek government said they didn't even know Mrs. Kennedy's schedule during the visit.

It was known she planned to spend several days at the luxurious villa of another Greek multi-millionaire shipowner, Markos Domikos. It overlooks the Aegean Set about 15 miles from Athens.

This white, modern two-story house, sheltered from view by a row of pine trees, is the same one used by Mrs. Kennedy and Princess Lee during a trip in 1961.

Mrs. Kennedy also is expected to cruise the eastern Mediterranean on Onassis' 3,000-ton yacht Christina, an 18-bedroom floating palace, complete with swimming pool, dance floor, radio-telephones and El Greco paintings.

Greek security guards and boats were expected to keep the public and press away from the villa. The yacht was expected to speed off to seclusion among the Greek islands, where it will be hard to follow.

One port of call will probably be the Islands of Scorpios in the Ionian Sea, south of the large Island of Lefkas. Mrs. Kennedy will have the island virtually to herself because it is uninhabited and owned by Onassis.

EMPEROR IS GIVEN PEEK AT U.S. '20s

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassi of Ethiopia had a front row view last night of America's gaudy Twenties—prancing flappers and old vaudeville.

Sitting beside President John F. Kennedy, the emperor seemed to enjoy the antics of the Robert Joffrey Ballet Company which provided the entertainment after the White House dinner in the Emperor's honor.

There were 120 guests in the state dining room, and the president's official hostess for the evening was his mother, Mrs. Joseph Kennedy.

Bogus Cuban Peso Ring Is Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secret Service agents today announced the arrest of an anti-Castro Virginia man as one of four conspirators plotting to flood Cuba's economy with 50 million dollars in counterfeit Cuban currency.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Charles J. Fanning said the plot was to smuggle the bogus bills into Cuba for use by the Cuban underground to pave the way for the downfall of Premier Fidel Castro.

Taken into custody was Mario Garcia Kohly, 62, a Cuban. Kohly said earlier this year that a number of Cuban exile groups had named him Cuban "president in exile."

Two other members of the alleged ring, Robert D. Morrow, 39, and his wife, Cecily, of Baltimore, were arrested there last night. A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Bill Evans, also known as Bill Grosch, of Washington, D. C.

Kohly, who came to this country in 1959, was arrested last night. In his possession were counterfeit plates to be used in printing Cuban peso notes, the agents said.

Barnett Gets Taste Of College In North

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) —Gov. Ross Barnett was shown two faces of Princeton—one polite, the other hostile— when the pro-segregation Mississippian preached states' rights before a university audience last night.

During an hour speech and half hour question period before 1,500 persons, Barnett was applauded 32 times. Booing broke out 15 times.

When the governor and his wife arrived on campus, 5,000 demonstrators swarmed around his car chanting integration songs. As the Barnetts walked the 10 yards from their car to Alexander Hall behind a screen of 36 state troopers, the chanting gave way to jeers and catcalls.

Again when he left the hall, Barnett was booed by 2,000 demonstrators.

Barnett and his wife, who wore a Confederate flag in her lapel, smiled but made no gestures to the demonstrators.

In his speech, Barnett characterized civil rights agitation as the work of "selfish politicians of both parties in their mad scramble for votes."

"There are too many selfish, mealy-mouthed, pussy-footing, fence-riding politicians who are selling the American people down the river for their own personal political ambitions and gains," he said.

Huge Sierra Wilderness Area Planned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Plans to form a 503,000-acre wilderness area from national forest land in the high Sierra have been announced by the U. S. Forest Service.

Regional Forester Charles A. Connaughton said the preserve would be the largest formally designated wilderness area in California.

It would include the present high Sierra primitive area, plus about 122,000 acres of previously unclassified national forest land. The area to be called the High Sierra Wilderness Area, would stretch 140 miles along the crest of the Sierra Nevada through the Sierra and Inyo national forests.

One hundred-thousand acres of the previously unclassified land would come from south of the San Joaquin River, an erea with many lakes and peaks over 12,000 feet high. The other 22,000 acres comes from boundary adjustments of the original primitive area, Connaughton said.

As a wilderness area, the land would be closed to roads and to development other than trails and rustic campground facilities.

understand the attitude of the council, which, he said, normally listens to complaints and protests of 25 people, yet, "when they had 150 people here Monday who wanted the council to take action, they refused to acknowledge it."

"We will be glad to present a folder full of facts (regarding Almcrants)," Sheeks said, "at the appropriate time or place. He added "I have got phone calls from a number of people who have indicated their support for the council's position."

"We do have a case," he continued. "If this matter is pressed, we will present the case in full to the public and let the facts be known and let the public judge for themselves whether there is some cause for complaint.

"The council wouldn't let this come to a head without the knowledge that it would create a storm of protest. They would not permit it to come to issue without having a substantial number of facts to buttress their position.

"The council did not do this and anything it does do is not done just on the spur of the moment as a matter of caprice."

One complaint against the city council came from outside the city limits today.

Sidney Dooray, secretary of the Alto Sanitary District, told the Independent-Journal that his district as well as other outlying districts have been having "a lot of trouble in the last 18 months.

"For example," he said, "our costs have doubled in the past 12 months. In the beginning when the city enlarged the (city) sewage treatment plant, we enjoyed very fine relations with former Mayor (Robert D.) Huber and the council and Almcrants . . . in the last 12 months I'm being constantly showered by petty ordinances and bothersome problems."

Mill Valley Chamber Head Quits

Leonard E. Blakely, president of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce since Jan. 1, tendered his resignation to the board of directors, Granville L. Beedle, secretary-manager, said today.

Lawrence A. Mayer, who was chamber president last year, was unanimously chosen to serve as president for the remainder of 1963.

Mayer is head of Mayer's Ltd. Department Store, Mill Valley.

Reason for Blakely's resignation, he said, is that his new work will take him out of the city and he will be unable to attend board meetings. Blakely is assistant manager of the Wells Fargo Bank, Mill Valley.

William E. Eberhart, coowner of Eberhart's Service at East Blithedale and Camino Alto, was elected as new director to fill Blakely's vacancy as director. He will serve until Dec. 31.

In other business at Friday's special meeting, A. A. Hemmerling was named chairman of the Christmas decorations committee and Edward R. Pedersen, Normand B. Black, Mayer and Beedle named committee men.

The board will meet again Oct. 9 at noon in the board room of the Mill Valley School District, 26 Miller Avenue.

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — "We'll have to start all over again, so to speak," said Mayor Calvin W. Mowbray of Cambridge after a town charter amendment to open restaurants, motels and hotels to Negroes was defeated.

The equal public accommodations amendment lost 1,994 to 1,720 in yesterday's referendum—with 60 per cent of the town's Negro voters staying away from the polls.

That Is Fur, Not Feathers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A student in James O. Martin's eighth grade science class caught a baby rabbit and brought it to school.

After the class had examined it, Martin took it home for his children. For want of a better place, they kept it in a bird cage.

A neighbor's child, age 6, wandered in one day and was intrigued by the furry creature. The child walked around the cage several times, peering intently at the rabbit.

Finally he said: "Mrs. Martin, are you absolutely sure that's a bird?"

Silver Spade Among Gold

NEW YORK (AP)—If anyone wants to do some spadework around the house with a real man-size, sterling silver shovel, they're available — at $1,000 apiece.

The 40 inch-long tool, with solid silver blade and handle joined by a rubbed-ebony finish shaft, was on display at the Retail Jewelers of America trade show here. It was designed by Joseph C. Boardman of Wallingford, Conn., for use at ground-breaking ceremonies.

Boardman got the idea for the shovel during a conversation with a jeweler-customer in Richmond, Va., who was looking for something to use at the dedication of a new savings bank.

Thus far, Boardman has sold 15 shovels.

Miniature Roses Good House Plants

NEW YORK (UPI)—Miniature roses in clay pots make attractive and fragrant house plants. They need sunshine, humidity and a moderate temperature to bloom continuously over a long period of time.

The porosity of their clay pots will give these flowering plants a chance to "breathe," keep roots cooler and insure against overwatering.

Old Texas Cave Has Many Uses

BURNET, Tex. (UPI) — Longhorn Cavern, the world's third largest scenic cave, also may have been the most versatile.

The huge cavern that stretches scenically into the scrub-brush, hilly area of central Texas was formed of the limestone of the age 500 million years ago. Remains of prehistoric bears, elephants, deer and bison have been discovered there.

The cave may have been refuge for prehistoric man and beast.

During the Civil War, it was used as a gunpowder factory and storage place by Confederate troops.

Later, Burnet area residents used the cave for picnics. Once a night club was nestled among its big rooms.

Texas acquired the cave in 1932 as a state park that is visited by upwards of 35,000 annually.

This week, Systematic Savings and Loan, Daly City; Fidelity Guaranty Savings and Loan, Berkeley, and Guarantee Savings and Loan of Yolo, Woodland, joined several Southern California associations in announcing a 5 per cent rate would be paid.

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Movies have become so long that a new drive-in theater here has had to install watering troughs and buckets of oats. The oats and water are placed near hitching posts provided by the drive-in for equestrian movie goers.

Not At Tea Time

LONDON (UPI)—Sydney Newman, television drama chief for the British Broadcasting Corp., said today some television dramas should include profanity to be realistic, but said he would try to keep "bad language" off the air at tea time.

The government has authorized funds for five saline water demonstration plants designed to convert seawater to fresh water.

Wanda Ramey Is Aiding Christmas Seal Drive

Television personality Wanda Ramey has accepted appointment as Marin County's first honorary chairman of the Christmas Seal campaign.

Her acceptance was announced today by Mrs. Corwin Hinshaw, 1963 seal campaign chairman and a director of the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

Miss Ramey, who is seen daily on KPIX's "Noon News," commented: "My job necessitates following the news closely, and I take careful note of reports on tuberculosis. I am always shocked and angered that this disease continues to play havoc with people's lives."

Miss Ramey started her broadcasting career while attending Indiana State Teachers College. She had radio programs on several Bay Area stations before entering television. In private life she is Mrs. Richard Queirolo, of Mill Valley, mother of year-old Kristi. Her husband, a San Francisco business man, is also a photographer. He collaborated last year with Miss Ramey in filming a report on the Terrace, tuberculosis wing of Ross Hospital.

Patrick Grady Retires To Travel

A San Raafel man who has been connected with the building materials business in Marin County for 40 years retired Monday "to spend some time traveling."

Patrick J. Grady of 1943 Fifth Avenue, known as Pat to his co-workers and members of the construction industry, started in the business in 1923 with his brother.

Grady Brothers on Francisco Boulevard merged into McPhail's Inc. about 1930 and Grady has been working for McPail's ever since.

Grady, who was superintendent of the building materials and ready-mix departments, "carried the business in his head for many years," according to company officials.

Youth Cleared Of Rifle Assault

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Daniel Lloyd Osborne, 17, of Woodside, was cleared yesterday of assault with a deadly weapon in the shooting of his brother, Michael, 22, on Sept. 8.

An assistant chief probation officer, Anthony Lavoi, told Superior Court Judge J. A. Branson of San Mateo County that the shooting was accidental and was caused by a defective .22 caliber rifle.

The young men are the sons of contractor Lloyd Osborne.

McINNIS EXPLAINS FEDERAL REC AID

Fusselman Leery Of 'Big Brother' Plan For Acquisition Of Lands With U.S.

San Rafael Mayor John McInnis went before Marin supervisors yesterday to explain about open-area financing with federal funds and promptly became locked in argument with Chairman William D. Fusselman as to whether "Big Brother is breathing down our necks," as Fusselman put it.

Outcome of the dispute, in which some part was taken by Wilbur Smith, executive director of the Assn. of Bay Area Governments, was reference to county counsel of a proposed application whereby Marin County would seek 30 rather than 20 per cent federal participation in recreation land acquisition and similar projects.

"It's simple—the federal government is encouraging regional planning," said McInnis. "It will make 50 per cent more of its money available if recipients are willing to clear their plans through some regional organization such as ABAG. Withdrawal at any time is wide open."

Supervisor William A. Gnoss asked about the possibility for getting federal money for such developments as the recreational planning now under way in North Marin for Stafford Lake, and Smith replier, "Yes, any open space operations are eligible."

But Fusselman insisted that where federal funds are used he'd always noticed that there was "infringement on state's rights, and I'm against it."

"Not the federal or state government is involved but only a regional planning organization," retorted McInnis. "We'll maintain control of our area."

Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker stressed that his understanding that the federal officials wouldn't interfere but Fusselman said "You'll find out," to which McInnis retorted "That is not so."

All finally agreed that the best way to find out the technicalities was to let County Counsel E. Warren McGuire study the proposed contract. McInnis said three Bay counties have agreed and the necessary 60 per cent seems assured.

Two Would-Be Robbers Try To Take Car, Flee

Two would-be robbers who tried to force an airman out of his car about midnight last night were still at large today despite an extensive ground and air search by Marin County sheriff's deputies.

Rubin Hendrickson of the sheriff's air patrol searched a large sector of North Marin this morning without success. Deputies in patrol cars continued on the look-out throughout the day.

A/1c Robert A. Pechman, 30, of Petaluma, escaped from the attempted robbery with a bloody nose after scuffling with one of the men at the side of Highway 101 last night. He said one of the men grabbed his car keys before running away.

Pechman told deputy Ernest Nielsen he had stayed late at Hamilton Air Force Base working in the hobby shop, and had stopped for two hitchhikers standing near the gate to the base when he left.

He said the two men caused no trouble until he was about three miles north of Novato. Then, he reported, one of the men told him he had a gun and ordered the airman out of the car.

Pechman said he tried to stop in a traffic lane on Highway 101, hoping to snarl traffic and get some help. But one man grabbed the steering wheel and guided the car to the shoulder of the highway. A fight started and then the two men ran.

Pechman said the men were medium height and build, with brown hair, wearing brown jackets and green pants. Nielsen said the description and method of operation resembles that of two men who escaped Monday from Napa State Hospital.

Writ Asked For Convict On Death Row

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A petition filed in the State Supreme Court today argued that it would be cruel and unusual punishment to execute Lawrence A. Jackson, 35, in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber on Oct. 30.

On Sept. 11, 1961, Jackson out of prison only four days, raped and murdered Doris Keyes, 50, in Riverside County.

He had served 11 years in prison for sexual assaults and admitted five forcible rapes.

His attorneys told the supreme court today, in asking for a writ of habeas corpus, that Jackson is mentally abnormal, has a history of habitual misconduct in sex matters, and has an "utter lack of power to control those impulses."

It would, the petition continued be contrary to the constitutions of the United States and California to execute the man.

FAIR HOUSING — Assemblyman Byron Rumford (D-Berkeley) will discuss the Fair Housing Act he authored at a meeting of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee and Council of Democratic Clubs at Sabella's Restaurant, Alto, at noon Oct. 17. Reservations are available at Marin Democratic Headquarters, according to Ruth Logue Lederman, special events chairman.

20 Marin City Families Due Notices To Move Out

Twenty families living in temporary housing in Marin City will be served notice tomorrow that they must move from their World War II apartments within 90 days in order that the buildings be demolished under current redevelopment.

The notice was authorized by the Marin County Housing Authority Commission, Bert Klahn, executive director, said today.

Six single persons occupy separate units out of the total 20 families.

Klahn said that the housing authority has no other accommodations available at present but it suggests that those persons interested invest in acquiring space in the cooperative apartments shortly to be completed in Marin City. The lease agreement of the 20 tenants, Klahn added, contains the clause wherein tenants agreed to waive relocation rights in exchange for temporary housing.

Lagunitas School Bus Shelter Might Go

The Lagunitas School District board last night discussed the possibility of abandoning the school bus stop shelter at the end of Railroad Avenue in Woodacre.

Supt. Clifford L. Frye said the present shelter is in "a bad state of repair and inadequate." Another shelter probably will be constructed at a different site, he said.

Virginia Render, 44, of 93 Elm Avenue, San Anselmo, was treated for a sprained neck yesterday at Marin General Hospital after her car was struck in the rear on Bayshore Highway near San Bruno. Hospital officials said Mrs. Render reported for treatment after driving home from the accident.

Bad Check Case

John J. Akbery, held to answer charges of burglary and forgery in action in Marin Municipal Court Monday, is accused of passing a $2,500 check on the account of Rowena A. Walter of 287 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera. The Independent-Journal yesterday incorrectly stated that Mrs. Walter had accepted a bad check from Akbery.

Two In Stabbing Given Isolation

Two San Quentin prisoners charged with stabbing a fellow inmate last week were sentenced to 29 days each in isolation yesterday by the prison disciplinary committee.

William Henry Usrey, 28, serving five years to life for robbery, and Leonard G. Golledge, 24, serving six months to 15 years for burglary, were found guilty by the committee of stabbing Paul F. Weeks, 31, in the back, neck, chest and arm. Both Usrey and Golledge entered the prison this year after convictions in Stanislaus County.

The stabbing case was referred to the Marin County district attorney. Weeks, convicted in Los Angeles for lewd and lascivious conduct, has recovered from the wounds, Associate Warden Dale B. Frady reported today.

Some insects have been air conditioning their homes for millions of years. Paper wasps drench their nests with cool water during particularly hot spells.

Fire Zones Proposal Put Before Supervisors

A comprehensive plan for establishment of fire zones and other restrictions was put before Marin supervisors yesterday by Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows as result of a board instruction in August and after meetings with fire chiefs and others.

Action was deferred to Oct. 15 because of objection by Carl Brown of Associated Home Builders, who said he hadn't been given enough time to discuss with his associates certain matters affecting apartment house construction.

Though Barrows said he had gathered that the contractors were set in opposition to some proposals endorsed by others, and had felt it time to bring the issue before the supervisors for decision, the board granted Brown two weeks to organize his line of battle.

Barrows' report recommended that county counsel be authorized to draft amendments to the County Building Code to establish additional construction requirements for apartment houses and similar structures, and to establish fire zones in certain commercial and industrial areas of unincorporated territory. He estimated that about 33 such districts now exist.

Associated Home Builders oppose certain apartment changes on a basis of increased costs, Barrows noted.

The supervisors also:

1. Appointed Susan Stocker intermediate typist clerk in the assessor's office at $345 a month; Amick Nelder key punch operator in data processing at $345; Jeanette Suntzoff social worker at $580; and Muriel Pinckney public health nurse at $508.

2. Received individual Indian headbands with feathers in setting Oct. 16 as 'Y. Indian Guide Day."

3. Appointed Dominick Pensevene of Terra Linda as member of the citizens advisory committee on housing.

4. Referred to the Civic Center Committee a suggestion by the Marin Council for Civic Affairs that income potential from the Civic Center and fairgrounds be investigated.

5. Approved a promotion and development contract for county fund outlay by the Greater Novato Chamber of Commerce, eliminating use of county money for promotion of home building programs as had been proposed.

6. Approved employment of the consulting firm Lee and Praszker to do soil investigation for design of footings of Flamingo Road Bridge, Tamalpais Valley, to be relocated for Coyote Creek Flood Control Project; also retaining David G. Cohn for appraisal services on the project at cost within $8,500.

7. Awarded contract for cab and chassis for county fire department to Bianco Motors on bid of $7,690, Ames Ford's $7,338 bid failing to conform with specifications.

8. Heard that dedication of new Hicks Valley fire station will be at 2 p.m. Sunday.

9. Accepted with thanks a dawn redwood tree donated to the Civic Center by Paul Leahy and William Fergus.

10. Authorized another month's work in complying with army engineer wishes as to placement of fill dredged from Saucelito Canal, Richardson Bay.

11. Approved prohibition of parking on the northwest side of Laurel Avenue, south side of Locust Avenue, northeast side of Cedar Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near College Avenue; stop sign on Moncada Way before entering Magnolia Drive; designation of Van Winkle Drive, Sleepy Hollow, as a through street with stop signs at all intersecting streets.

12. Authorized rental of a county clamshell-type digger to the City of Mill Valley.

13. Set a five miles an hour speed limit for incoming boats on Santa Margarita Creek by Joe's Landing.

14. Bought for $200 a state property needed for construction of access road from Civic Center to Terra Linda interchange.

Kentucky Fights Dropout Rate

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The Bourbon County School Board has received a $22,800 federal grant for a program to try to reduce dropouts among county high school students.

The money is for the next year. More is forthcoming in the following two years.

Kentucky, with a dropout rate in high schools of 42.8 per cent, is second in the nation only to Georgia's 43.2 per cent.

On Winning Team

Edward A. Fellows, Navy seaman apprentice, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Fellows of 281 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, is a member of Mobile Construction Battalion 11, winner of the Pacific Fleet's "Best of Type" award for the third consecutive year at Port Huenema.

Sausalito Seeking Further Planning On Yacht Harbor

The Sausalito City Council took no stand last night on the proposed 115-berth public yacht harbor in the waterfront area between the ferry "Berkeley" and the Spinnaker restaurant.

Councilmen referred the matter back to the city planning commission for further study, pending development of an overall plan for development of the central waterfront area.

John Koenig, a member of the Sausalito Yacht Club board, appealed the planning commisison's recommendation for denial of a permit to construct the harbor.

Mayor Paul Micou said the council was not going to grant the permit at this time because the plan for the overall area is not completed.

In a letter the Sausalito Citizens Council urged the city not to act prematurely.

"The contemplated facility would completely block off the open seascape with a sea of parked automobiles and hauled out sailboats," Glenn T. Hall, citizens council president, wrote. "We cannot discern where it would enhance the city or result in a net addition to municipal revenues."

Koenig contended that the comment that the facility would block the view was "erroneous." The bulkhead would be no more than three or four feet above high tide, he said.

He contended that development of the harbor, breakwater and dry storage dock would make it possible to develop a public beach in the protected area.

In a letter the Sausalito Recreation Commission described the harbor project as "a reasonable use of such property," and said that recreation facilities could include a walkway and public beach area.

The proposed harbor is a joint project of the Sausalito Yacht Club and Sausalito Yacht Harbor Corp.

Firemen's Assn. Elects Officers

Don Wallace is the new president of the Marinwood Firemen's Assn. succeeding Bert Bahlke outgoing president.

Wallace was elected last night at the association's regular meeting at the firehouse. Other officers elected to serve with Wallace are Lee Russ, vice president; and Roy Johnson, secretary treasurer.

The association members also set Oct. 12 as the date for the annual firemen's dinner. It will be held at the Chateau Restaurant in Lucas Valley.

Airman/3c Leon A. Brossier of San Anselmo has returned to his California Air National Guard unit at Hayward following graduation from the Air Force technical training course for inventory specialists at Amarillo AFB, Tex. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Brossier of 58 Laurel Avenue.

Stinson Getting New Postmaster

The United States Senate today confirmed the appointment of Mrs. L. Dorothy Mayfield as postmaster of Stinson Beach.

She was nominated last month by President John F. Kennedy after recommendation by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee. She has been a clerk in the postoffice for two years and has lived in Stinson Beach nine years.

Mrs. Shirley Zion, acting postmaster since the retirement of Ethel Hain in 1961, was among several other candidates who took an examination for the job.

Mrs. Mayfield said today she has not yet learned when her appointment will be effective.

Parks, Council Session Fails On Site Purchasing

San Rafael parks and recreation commissioners flatly told the city council in a joint meeting last night that they need more cooperation from the council in acquisition of park sites.

But after two hours of discussing ways to improve the commission's relations with the council, nobody was any closer toward purchase of three park sites in the Terra Linda area of the city.

Mrs. Marion Schwartz of 223 Arias Street, said, "There's an explosive situation out there. The children have no place to go but to a concrete slab on the schoolgrounds. There's nothing for them to do but set grass fires . . . We can't use the Terra Linda Recreation District's swimming pool. We have no place to go unless we join a country club, and we already pay enough taxes . . . there's no way to get out of that valley."

Mayor John F. McInnis replied that no place in the Bay Area has all the recreation room it needs, and San Rafael is doing the "best it can" to catch up with population growth.

Carl J. Brown, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, told the council there "seems to be a breakdown in communications" when negotiations begin for purchase of park sites.

"We would like to have a vote of confidence from the council," he said. "Sometimes it seems to be open season on park commissioners. We've been shot down before we even get to first base."

Purchase of new park sites in Terra Linda has been a major consideration of the commission for more than a year, but the council has said repeatedly that no money can be allocated until exact price of the land is known.

"What you want, without saying so," said Councilman Fred E. Jensen, "is for the council to set aside so much money so you can go out and buy land whenever you want."

"We've not spent much on parks," McInnis said. He continued that the "next two years are crucial, with more pressing problems facing us such as a new city hall and our traffic problem." He told Brown the council is "always concerned about parks but we are still feeling our way."

Pat Hetherton, city planning commission chairman, warned that San Rafael "must have parks" and said funds for purchase must be found somewhere.

Louis Purkey Is Elected To Marin Hospital Board

LOUIS L. PURKEY
Happy to serve

Louis Leonard Purkey of 7 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, who has made many contributions in surveys and counseling service to the Marin Hospital District board, was elected to the board last night.

Purkey, a retired executive of Standard Oil Co. of California, was elected on the motion of director Ernest Kettenhofen seconded by director Herman Hale.

The meeting adjourned for five minutes while Purkey was telephoned at his home at 7 Magnolia Avenue. He arrived at the meeting at 8:24 p.m.

Purkey recently has been working as a management consultant. He said he now would devote all his energies to the board. "I am happy to serve and hope to justify your confidence in me," he said.

He was to be sworn in at the county clerk's office today.

On Sept. 13, 1948, Purkey was appointed to fill out the term of Larkspur City Councilman R. J. Mullen, resigned. Purkey was elected to a four year term in April, 1950, and served until he resigned the following October and was replaced by Ward H. Austin.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

1. Directed administrator William W. Turner to send the Kentfield Fire District board a list of fire safety regulations with which the hospital district has complied.

2. Voted to purchase an electro-encephalograph machine at $6,200 and a new operating table at $2,600 from surplus funds.

3. Heard a report from Turner that the county has not submitted an offer for the minifilm chest X-ray equipment used at the hospital to test patients for tuberculosis; the board voted July 23 to turn it over to the county at "a fair price."

Sausalito Considers Work On Hazardous City Road

Sausalito City Council is considering major street reconstruction to eliminate the hazardous traffic conditions along Alexander Avenue, scene of a fatal accident in June.

The roadway at the south entrance to the city runs downhill into a blind corner and carries heavy traffic during commuting hours and weekends.

Under consideration for revamping is the section of Alexander Avenue from the south city limits to South Street.

As an interim safety measure the council authorized City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to eliminate all unnecessary signs along the roadway and provide new traffic advisory signs at an estimated cost of $425.

They also are considering the placing of a yellow, overhead warning light at the south entrance to the city. As a preliminary step to possible reconstruction they asked Brown to determine the cost of an engineering study.

The recommendation for lights, signs and revamping of the roadway was made by Brown and Norman Wohlschlaeger, supervisor of public works.

The council also discussed a problem in another sector of the city, noise at the A. G. Schoonmaker Co. and United Sand and Gravel, at the foot of Spring Street.

They took no action after received a letter from T. L. Schoonmaker, president of A. G. Schoonmaker, that steps have been taken to cut down the noise, and that United Sand and Gravel is contemplating installing an exhaust silencer on its equipment.

Councilmen also pondered the problem of the filling of San Francisco Bay.

After looking at a drawing showing how much of the bay could be filled, councilmen concluded that Richardson Bay could be reduced to a stream.

In a stand against "unprincipled filling of the bay," they agreed to notify the planning subcommittee of the assembly interim committee on natural resources, planning and public works that the problem should be solved on a regional basis rather than on a local basis. The committee will meet in San Francisco Oct. 22 and 23 on the bay filling problem.

The Sausalito City Council also:

1. Received a request from attorney Hugh G. Lawrence of Sausalito for the city to aid in the formation of an assessment district for the improvement of roads in the Marinship area.

2. Requested the municipal court judges to raise the parking meter violation fee from $1 to $2 to be effective in three weeks to a month.

3. Accepted the resignation of Dr. Fred M. Tetzlaff from the library board who said his business was keeping him too busy.

4. Continued until Oct. 14 a request by Mrs. Hazel Thomas to increase the base taxi rate from 50 cents for the first three-fifths of a mile to 60 cents.

5. Authorized the board of review to employ an attorney for the hearing on the appeal of former Police Chief Howard Goerndt, who was fired by the city manager.

6. Agreed to let Village Fair merchants, who were burned out in last Wednesday's fire, use the city parking lot, opposite Village Fair, to display their wares.

7. Agreed to meet at 9 a.m. Saturday for a field trip to George Lane to study proposed street dedication there.

8. Received a letter from the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce commending the council for holding the line on the tax rate.

9. Received a letter from Dr. Charna G. Perry praising the ambulance service for its rapid first aid in the case of a man who collapsed earlier this month.

Cotton farmlands in this nation are valued at 10 billion dollars.

GOP, Demos Get Together On Drive For Funds

Money brought the two political parties together yesterday in the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francisco and resulted in a joint announcement to the press by party officials.

Roger Kent of Kentfield, Northern California Democratic chairman, and Casper W. Weinberger, Republican state chairman, outlined plans for a state wide drive to boost their party coffers.

Both parties are promoting $1 fund raising drives to begin Oct. 15. Political opponents said their agreement had been reached on the fund raising campaign on the basis that it will give all a chance to participate in the American political process.

Two Sailors Train

Two Marin Naval Reservists, Samuel G. Hooten of 43 Oakridge Road, San Rafael, and Lawrence J. Biagini Jr., of 67 Mountain View Road, Fairfax, served aboard the destroyer Laws, a Pacific Fleet Naval Reserve training ship, during anti-submarine training maneuvers near Hawaii.

Goldwater Says He Hasn't Changed His Basic Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said today those who contend he is hedging his conservatism to angle for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination have not listened to what he is saying.

Goldwater, Arizona Republican who is considered a front runner for a nomination he still insists he isn't seeking, said in an interview that he hasn't changed his position on any fundamental issue in recent speeches he has made in all sections of the country.

"Some of the people who are saying that I am modifying my conservative position just haven't been reading what I have been saying," he said.

"Of course, I think there would be something wrong with any man in public life who didn't change some of his ideas to meet the developments of the time," he added. "Consistency is not necessarily a virtue. But I haven't changed my stand on any fundamental issue and I don't intend to."

About the only concrete example of a shift in position that Goldwater could think of off hand was his conversion to support of the Kennedy administration's proposal to clothe the attorney general with authority to file suits to enforce school integration.

"I opposed that in the past but if the attorney general feels that he needs this authority, then I am willing to give it to him, provided that it is restricted to specific cases and is not used as a blunderbuss."

Goldwater said he wasn't moving toward the center in subscribing generally to remarks made by Gerald K. Skibbins, Princeton, N.J., research executive, and erroneously attributed to the Arizona senator by the Congressional Record.

Goldwater corrected the record yesterday to show that Skibbins, rather than he, made an Aug. 24 speech in Montclair, N.J.

The senator said he had ordered the speech put in the Record but did not know how the mixup occurred.

Skibbins said, among other things, that many Americans "squirm when they hear the label 'conservative' because they think of pre-World War II isolationism, John Birch Society members, America Firsters, Segregationists, Ku Klux Klansmen, and many other little groups who feel that freedom means an extra-legal hunting or hating license rather than a responsible privilege held under law."

Ex-Policeman Pleads Innocent To Tickets

John T. O'Haire, former San Francisco police inspector, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges totaling $555 in traffic tickets issued in Marin County since 1962.

A court trial was set for Nov. 19 by Judge Leonard A. Thomas for O'Haire, 45, who lives at 2215 Oak Knoll Road, Novato.

Two Apply For San Anselmo School Board

Two men have applied to fill a vacancy on the San Anselmo School District board.

Superintendent Stephen Parodi told the school board last night that Charles E. Monte, 81 Elm Avenue, and Joseph E. Tilt, 60 Angela Avenue, had each written letters asking for appointment to finish the term of Philip E. Smith, who resigned Sept. 17.

Board Chairman Robert Corlett said that more names would be accepted before the board makes a final decision Oct. 22.

Monte is mortician at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Tilt, co-chairman of the campaign in the Oct. 15 bond and tax election for the school district, is an engineer for Kaiser Engineering, Oakland.

Smith resigned because he is moving to San Rafael. He was appointed to the board Nov. 7, 1960 and was elected to a full term in April, 1961. The term ends June 30, 1965.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

1. Approved a $1,500 change order for increased filling at the site of the addition to the Wade Thomas School.
2. Received a report from Parodi that the Oct. 15 tax and bond election would cost the district $1,505.53, and heard a progress report from Tilt, co-chairman of the San Anselmo Citizens Committee for Schools on the election campaign.
3. Heard a report from psychologist Frances Sink on school guidance counseling.
4. Were notified a second bus had been added to bring children to school in the morning, and that the bus schedule had been revised.
5. Were told that the first public hearing on unification of school districts in the Tamalpais Union High School District would be held Oct. 23.

Fairfax Recreation Chairman Is Named

Peter Arrigoni Jr. of 35 Oak Tree Lane, was appointed chairman of the Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission last night, replacing Thomas C. Peck.

Arrigoni was named chairman when commissioners agreed the office should be rotated among members. The commission also discussed plans for the dedication of the Andy Peri Memorial Playground, to be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Fairfax City Park.

CAT SURVIVES 2 MONTHS IN SEALED CRATE

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—A tough little gray cat from Canada astonished veterinarians here by surviving a two-months journey from Montreal sealed in a crate.

A docker in a warehouse noticed movement behind a knothole in the crate.

The crate was opened and the cat emerged, thin but little the worse except for a raging thirst.

Bolinas Harbor Launch Ramp Plan Gaining

Cooperation of the Bolinas Harbor District has been obtained for construction of a boat launching ramp, county parks and recreation director Kelvin Nelson reported to the board of supervisors yesterday.

"We're interested in moving such operations out of town," Nelson explained. This was part of the program proposed recently by Supervisor Peter H. Behr as a means of placating residents and visitors annoyed by recent county action in banning automobiles from public beach areas in town.

Because Behr is away on holiday the board postponed for two weeks any further consideration of the matter.

$1,200 In Carpets Stolen In Tiburon

Rolled carpets worth $1,200 were reported stolen yesterday from two apartments in a building under construction at Tiburon Hill Estates.

The carpets, owned by the A-1 Carpet Co., Oakland, had been cut for installation in the living rooms of the apartments, but had been left rolled on the floors. Both apartments were unlocked. The total loss amounted to more than 300 square yards of carpeting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week. His last meeting with newsmen was Sept. 12.

Hub City, School Rec Contract Is Ratified

A parks and recreation contract between the City of San Anselmo and the San Anselmo School District was ratified last night unanimously by the school board.

The city council had approved the contract previously.

"This sounds like a great challenge at the local level," board member Elmer Weden Jr. commented. "I hope we can keep it at the local level."

"We're not seeking any outside aid, strings or involvement," answered Dwight A. Nelson, chairman of the city's parks and recreation commission.

City Mgr. Douglas E. Flautt added that the contract merely formalizes procedures the city has been following for several years in its recreation programs after school and during the summer.

Several members of the parks and recreation commission attended the board meeting, and heard Nelson describe plans and hopes to revamp the city's recreation program, especially to make facilities available for adults.

He said the commission is considering a recommendation to purchase the American Legion Log Cabin, to use as a community center for teenagers and senior citizens.

Weden asked about the school district's share in costs of the program, other than merely providing and maintaining space. He specifically asked about whether the district would be expected to help pay the salary of a fulltime director.

Nelson said he believed that a fulltime director would be needed, and added that the contract between the city and district allowed the schools to help with such costs, but didn't say the schools would be asked to pay.

He added, however, that the director might also be a part-time instructor at the school. Weden didn't press the point.

Nelson reminded the school board the city will soon be working on a master plan, and said the board should help in the planning.

Nelson also commented that some recreation programs will bring money into the city, and said fees would probably be charged in some proposed programs, such as tennis instruction.

Reed School Tax Meeting Tonight

The pros and cons of the Reed Union School District tax election on Oct. 22 will be discussed at a meeting of the Reedlands Property Owners Assn. tonight at 8 o'clock at the Bel Aire School.

Henry J. Broderick, member of the tax election committee, and Leo Souza, Reed trustee, will speak. Souza has announced he is not supporting the election.

The district is asking an increase of $1 in the operating tax rate bringing it to $3.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

Visits Japanese Port

Michael S. Grant, Navy aviation storekeeper airman, son of Mrs. Anne M. Grant of 1 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross, is serving aboard the antisubmarine aircraft carrier Kearsarge, which recently spent several days in Kahodate, a small Japanese port rarely visited by U.S. ships. The craft is with the Seventh Fleet in the Far East.

Communist Will Speak At College

Albert J. Lima, chairman of the Northern California District of the Communist Party of the United States, will address College of Marin students at 12:30 p.m. next Tuesday in Olney Hall.

Lima will speak on "The Communist View of the American Scene," announced Robert Scoville of Corte Madera, president of the Mariner Discussion Committee, which will sponsor the talk.

Scoville said he thought Lima's talk would be the first appearance of a Communist speaker on a California junior college campus.

Lima addressed students at the University of California in Berkeley last spring. His address at Kentfield will be the first in a series of talks on controversial issues planned by the discussion group, Scoville said.

The student club is acting "on its own" in scheduling Lima, said Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond. He added, however, that students are encouraged to invite speakers of differing points of view to develop critical thinking.

A question period will follow Lima's speech.

Lima, California-born, has been a member of the Communist Party since 1930. In 1950 he and 14 other California Communist Party members were arrested under the conspiracy clause of the Smith Act. They eventually won acquittal in the Supreme Court.

Fleas, which do not have wings, are equipped with strong legs.

Blood, Ashes Oath Revealed By Valachi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi, the convicted dope peddler and killer, has given the Senate rackets subcommittee up to date and sometimes bewildering information of strange names and aliases, alliances and blood oaths.

Valachi spent most of yesterday telling of assassinations and gang warfare back in the 1920s and 30s when hoodlum killers carried their machine guns in violin cases.

The big, crowded hearing room grew hushed as he described his ritual, Mafia-like initiation into the crime syndicate which he calls La Cosa Nostra, "Our thing" in Italian.

"This is my doom . . . what I'm telling you now," the 60-year-old hoodlum said grimly after relating how he was sworn in with a knife and gun before him, his finger pricked to draw blood and a piece of paper burning in his hand to remind him that he too would be burned to ashes if he broke the oath.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), announced his Senate investigations subcommittee has "two or three more murders" from the past on which to question Valachi before bringing his testimony back to crimes of the present.

The subcommittee is investigating the purported nationwide crime syndicate operations, with Valachi as a major witness. And it has said that police testimony will corroborate Valachi's testimony.

The subcommittee has indicated the aim of the hearings is to draw public attention to the racketeering activities and to explore the possible need of new laws to battle organized crime.

Valachi has told the senators he wants to destroy La Cosa Nostra through his testimony because it exploited rank-and-file members like himself and has marked him for execution as an informer.

He has named Vito Genovese, now in prison as a narcotics racketeer, as La Cosa Nostra's dominant power, and linked Genovese's name with bloody gang wars for power.

Redwood High School Forum Elects Chairman

John Burke, a senior, has been elected chairman of the newly organized Redwood High School Forum, which will act as a "watchdog over student government."

Last year Burke was one of the organizers of the "Regneva" group which had a running battle with student government officers.

David Bean, a senior, was elected vice chairman, and Mary Burke, a freshman and sister of the chairman, was elected secretary.

Raymond Kemper, history teacher, is adviser to the forum. The group meets Wednesdays at 3:10 p.m. at the school.

In the eyes of morticians, the modern funeral service ranks with the flag, motherhood and free enterprise as unassailable institutions in American life.

This, at least, is the impression one gets from reading the attacks made by morticians' trade magazines on critics of rising funeral costs. "A threat to religion itself" and "weasels sucking away at the life blood of our basic economy" are two of the epithets that have been used against such critics.

But the fact remains that the cost of burying its dead is one of the three or four major single expenses that every family in the United States faces. According to the National Funeral Directors Assn., the "regular adult funeral" cost $755 in the United States last year, and that does not include what must be spent for burial.

These statistics beg the question of why funeral costs are high and why the cost of dying is increasing at a faster rate than the cost of living.

Morticians, when confronted with the cold statistics of high costs, have a common reply. Americans, exercising their traditional freedom of choice, are simply choosing to spend more today to pay final tribute to their loved ones.

A more plausible explanation of rising funeral costs can be found in a combination of these two factors:

1. The funeral purchase is made during a time of emotional distress and with few standards available for judging the relative value of goods and services offered.

2. The funeral is considered by many persons today to be a status symbol.

Prof. Byron D. Sher, writing in the May, 1963, issue of the Stanford Law Review, describes how the element of grief reduces the bargaining position of a widow "whose emotional condition may preclude investigation of available funeral services and prices and the making of a rational choice among them."

Brownlee Shirek, executive secretary of the Bay Area Funeral Society in Berkeley, and an outspoken critic of high funeral costs, uses blunter words: "The buyer doesn't have much of a bargaining position. He MUST buy a funeral."

Both men criticize morticians for placing undue sales pressure on survivors during their period of emotional distress and thus forcing them to buy a service they cannot afford.

Some morticians answer this charge by pointing out they permit survivors to enter the casket selection room alone and make their purchase free of any such pressure.

But the average person has no concept of the fair market price of the goods and services offered. Is a polished mahogany casket worth $500? Should embalming cost $50? Additionally, the survivor must make on on-the-spot decision without "shopping around."

Quite different is the bargaining position of an individual about to purchase a car who has the benefit of consumer indexes and the counsel of his friends.

There are cases on record of funeral directors taking unfair advantage of the emotional distress of survivors. A government investigation into the costs of burying the 111 men killed in the 1947 Centralia, Ill., coal disaster revealed that charges for identical caskets and services varied by several hundred dollars.

Shirek said he knew personally of a widow who was sold an expensive bronze casket for transporting her husband's body to a crematorium. Because the bronze could not be consumed by the fire, the crematorium was forced to destroy the casket with a sledge hammer.

At the other extreme are cases of individuals who have gone out of their way to pour needless money into a funeral.

An official at Forest Lawn Memorial in Los Angeles tells of a man who committed suicide by jumping into a volcano in Hawaii.

At great expense, his relatives recovered the body and flew it to Forest Lawn for cremation. The ashes were then returned to Hawaii and scattered into the same crater in which he had met death.

These examples illustrate how emotional distress distorts the process of buying a funeral. When the element of status is injected, the bargaining situation is thrown further out of focus.

In her new book, "The American Way of Death," Jessica Mitford quotes one mortician as asking: "If a person drives a Cadillac, why should he have a Pontiac funeral?" Another said, "In keeping with our high standard of living, there should be an equally high standard of dying."

Funeral directors do not have to be this blunt with their customers. Most likely, the survivors already are thinking in those terms.

A widow, for example, may recall the elaborate funeral of a family friend and be determined to provide something as nice for her husband, even though she cannot afford such an expense.

The victims of this distorted thinking are not the wealthy who could easily afford a funeral more expensive than most morticians could provide.

The victims are the grief-stricken widows and widowers with children who see their insurance money spent for an expensive funeral that, in the final analysis, adds little to the spiritual welfare of the deceased.

Park Group Urges Grant School Property Be Squared

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission decided last night that the boundaries of the old Grant School property should be squared up before any consideration is given to city purchase of the land for public use.

The state owns 105,000 square feet of the property and Harry L. Johnson of Mill Valley owns about 50,000 square feet. Johnson, at last night's commission meeting, said his land is a wedge cutting toward the center of the property.

He said he has been working with the State Division of Highways to see if the two parcels can be squared up on a line that would follow the extension of Cain Street.

If he can get the boundaries changed, Johnson said he will develop a 1.5 million dollar commercial complex on Grant Avenue.

Joseph Wright, president of the Downtown Improvement Assn., told the advisory commission last night that his association will recommend against city purchase of the land. The group will recommend that the land be placed on auction for commercial development.

Paul Fry, Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce president, said his group will recommend that the lower portion be sold to private developers as commercial land, but the upper portion be purchased by the city as a site for a library.

The commission voted to recommend to the Novato City Council that it urge the state to square up the boundary lines.

Negro To Work On Minorities Program

Joel Mitchell, 32, a Negro who is working as a probation officer in Marin, has been hired to help personnel director Robert D. Elliott set up a pilot program for clerical training and hiring of minorities for county employment.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors authorized the job of assistant to Elliott for a 90-day trial period, after Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker posed a series of questions concerning the employment of Negroes and other minorities.

Elliott announced that Mitchell will be "borrowed" from the probation office through the cooperation of Probation Officer Walter Busher. Mitchell will start working with Elliott at the Civic Center Monday, but for a week or two he will also work part time as probation officer to complete the probation cases to which he is now assigned.

Mitchell's job will include working with the State Employment Service, the adult division of the College of Marin, possibly Tamalpais High School District and other agencies.

Purpose of the pilot program is to make it possible for Marin residents with socially and educationally deprived backgrounds to qualify for jobs through in-service training.

Prowler Is Back For Another Shot

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—A neighborhood prowler is hard to discourage in the city's East Brainerd area.

He pried the window from one house, withdrew when an occupant fired a shotgun, returned to a neighboring house and pried off a window screen, only to withdraw before another shotgun blast fired by the same man.

Two nights later, police said, the same prowler was scared off again.

AEC Says 'A Few' Infants Got High Radioactive Dose

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission, changing a previous view, says "a few" infants in Utah may have absorbed up to 28 times the permissible dose of radioactive iodine as a result of nuclear tests in Nevada in the summer of 1962.

At the same time the AEC challenged the view of some scientists, expressed at recent fallout hearings before the joint Senate-House Atomic Committee that as a result of past tests thousands of infants in Utah and other states bordering on the Nevada test site may have received dangerous iodine doses ranging up to hundreds of times the permissible level.

Radioactive Iodine is a potential cause of thyroid cancer.

In a letter to the joint committee later made available to reporters, the AEC said:

"It may be that a few Utah infants received as much as 7-14 rad to the thyroid gland in the summer of 1962."

A "rad" is a unit of radiation. The federal radiation protection guide is 0.5 rad for a whole year's exposure.

The AEC did not say how many infants it meant by "a few." It did say that a recent review of all available data indicates that the exposure "may have occurred on one or more isolated Utah farms."

At the same time, the AEC indicated its view that doses of radioactive iodine ranging up to 28 times the permissible limits were far from being enough to cause thyroid cancer.

Steady Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Of every 10 workers employed in January, 1963, three had been with the same employer or business for more than 10 years and one out of these three had obtained his present job before World War II, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Degree Pays Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average income of men with a college degree is on the verge of reaching $10,000 a year. The figure crossed $9,500 a year in 1961 and has been going up steadily, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

Old Custom Might Be Out

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Door rattling may go the way of high button shoes.

Police Chief Thomas J. O'Brien is considering eliminating a patrolman's tedious duty, door rattling to make sure stores are locked.

O'Brien says the task is too time consuming and needless because most merchants lock their doors and most have burglar alarms.

A two-unit diesel passenger locomotive costs nearly $500,000 and a modern railroad passenger coach costs about $200,000.

Another Problem For New 49er Coach: Brodie Is Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jack Christiansen, who suddenly became a head football coach with the dual handicaps of a winless team and practically no time to install his own ideas, now finds his San Francisco 49ers don't even have regular quarterback John Brodie.

While Brodie sits on the sidelines with his throwing arm in a cast, Christiansen will be forced to make his coaching debut Sunday with little-used Bobby Waters and stranger Lamar McHan at quarterback.

Brodie's right forearm went into a cast yesterday after X-rays showed that the healing area of a previous fracture was reinjured when he was tackled in Sunday's 45-14 loss to Minnesota.

A club statement said that the arm would be immobilized for six weeks "to insure permanent healing." After that, the 49ers said, "we have reason to believe . . . he should be able to throw as well as ever."

Brodie first broke his arm last spring in an early-morning accident when his auto struck a tree. The arm was sore much of the season, kept Brodie out of one exhibition game and hampered his effectiveness the rest of the time.

Coach Red Hickey, who quit Monday, pulled Brodie out of the second half Sunday and used Waters, who completed 8 of 15 passes for 79 yards.

Waters, though in his fourth National Football League season, played only sparingly and threw only six passes all last year.

McHan reported yesterday from Baltimore a week after the 49ers claimed him on waivers. Christiansen said Waters would probably start against Detroit because he knows the San Francisco system, patterns and receivers.

But the youthful coach added that McHan "will be ready to play our system" although, as Christiansen said Monday, he'll find the system quite different from Baltimore's.

Brodie, in his seventh NFL season, became the starting 49ers quarterback in 1961 after Y. A. Tittle was traded to New York. Last season he ranked sixth among the league's passers.

Why Do Managers Put Their Top Moundsmen Against Each Other?

CONNOLLY

Freddie Hutchison, manager of the Cincinnati Reds used his best pitcher against the Yanks' best pitcher in the 1961 World Series.

Jimmy O'Toole lost both games to Whitey Ford. Cincy also lost the series to the Yanks.

The same set-up took place today. Whitey Ford and Sandy Koufax, top dog pitchers on the Dodgers and Yanks had at it again. Maybe the result will be the same.

Why, in the name of common horse sense, does it have to happen. Walter Alston, Dodger pilot, refused to budge and Ralph Houk, Yank pilot, was just as obstinate. They both felt it had to happen. They argue you pit your best pitcher against the other guy's best and let the chips fall where they may.

It would seem in this day and age when every big league manager likens himself to an Army Field General, they'd do some of the things Generals like MacArthur and Eisenhower did in their prime.

Both generals sacrificed one objective to gain the other and they did pretty well.

But baseball "generals" like the glory of the Army boys, but won't bow to each other. They just get their necks bowed and that's it.

If you compare the records of both pitchers you have to go along with Sandy Koufax over Whitey Ford.

Koufax is superior in every way. He won 25-3 to Ford's 24-7; Sandy pitched 311 innings to Ford's 269; Ford allowed 240 hits to 214 allowed by Sandy. Ford struck out only 180 to Sandy's 306.

As to the caliber of hitters each pitcher faced, there is no contest. American League batters, are as a general rule, much weaker than those in the National League.

No matter in what category you land you'll find the Dodgers stole more bases, scored more runs, hit more home runs than the Yanks. And made more errors.

So with those facts nailed down how can you figure the gamblers making the Yanks the choice in betting?

The Dodgers figure stronger in Chavez Ravine, their home grounds, than they do in Yankee Stadium.

But remember a short series of seven games is difficult to understand. You'll see what I mean as the series progresses.

N.L. Hopes To Aid N.Y. Mets, Colts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Owners of National League baseball clubs will meet in Los Angeles Friday to discuss the plight of the talent-shy New York Mets and the Houston Colts.

The two clubs have asked the other eight in the league to help them strengthen for the 1964 race. Houston proposed the meeting and the Mets readily gave their support. The meeting will be on the "off" day between the second and third games of the World Series. No game is scheduled Friday, which is allowed for traveling.

The Mets and the Colts paid exorbitant prices for second line players when the National League expanded to 10 teams two years ago.

How the clubs can be strengthened is something that the owners will have to thresh out before any action is taken. If the two are to be helped it might have to be by trades, so the Mets and Colts would have to give up something.

The Dodgers already have sent first baseman Tim Harkness, outfielder Duke Snider, catcher Norm Sherry, pitcher Roger Craig and infielder Larry Burright to the Mets but they have in ex-Met pitcher Bob Miller a more valuable property than all those they traded away.

Washington Back Tops Big 6 Rushing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Unsung Clarence Williams of Washington State leaped to the top of the Big Six rushing statistics after a big day against Iowa last Saturday.

Williams, a junior, has chured 163 yards to top all rushers. Others with over 100 yards for two games include USC soph Mike Garrett (130), Stanford's Dick Ragsdale (124) and Cal's Jim Blakeney (104).

Dave Mathieson of Washington State leads passers with 21 completions, while Pete Beathard of USC is the total offense king at 182 yards. Other leaders include Ragsdale, who has scored 30 points; Gerry Shaw of Washington State with seven pass receptions and USC's Ernie Jones, who has kicked for a 43.6 average.

Team statistics are dominated by USC, Washington State, and Stanford.

Stanford leads in total offense with 294 yards per game, and in rushing offense with 220 yards. USC is tops in total defense (226) and pass defense (27). Washington State leads in pass offense (112) and rushing defense (125).

In over-all games, the conference has a disappointing 3-8-1 record after a tough two weeks of mostly intersectional clashes.

Strawberry Swim Winners Listed

Debbie Davis and Eric Rayner each won six first places last Saturday to highlight the Strawberry Swim Club swimming meet in which some 40 youngsters competed.

Bill, Bruce and Emily Thomson and Terry Bergstrom each won five firsts, Carolyn Partridge and Dan McNeil took four each, Mike Goldberg had three winners, Mark Hazel two and Andrew Thomson, Dennis Nickoloff, Colleen O'Connor and Chris Lutz one each.

BEWARE NEW YORK YANKEES . . .

Maury Wills Will Be Willing To Run

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maury Wills will be running—just in case the Yankees had any doubt.

Without issuing any defiant boasts or threats, the quiet but keyed-up Dodger speedster made his World Series intentions perfectly clear today by saying "When I stop being aggressive I won't be Maury Wills anymore."

Translated quickly that means the Yankees can try to stop him—if they can.

NO PEDESTAL

Yankee catcher Elston Howard never has down-graded Wills, nor has he put him up on any special pedestal.

"I know he can run," Howard says simply. "He stole 104 bases last year and 40 this year but we have some fast fellows in our league, too, and none have ran wild against us. For Wills or for anyone, I'm gonna play my natural game."

That suits Wills just fine.

NATURAL GAME

"I'm going to play my natural game, too," he says, without any cockiness. "I'm not saying I plan to do this or I plan to do that but of course I have my own ideas.

"I've read what Howard has said. I read the papers all the time and it helps me. You can go to school on what you read.

"A couple of years ago I read every word in a story about what the Pittsburgh pitchers had to say about me. You have no idea how much it helped. If you look it up, I think you'll find I have a pretty good average against the Pirates."

Chiefly because of Wills and Willie Davis, the Yankees openly acknowledge the Dodgers' superior speed. But they also keep repeating the hoary old baseball axiom that they have to get on base before they can steal.

"That's obvious," says Wills.

The possibility that Howard may cut him down trying to steal doesn't particularly faze the slender Los Angeles shortstop.

"Even when you're thrown out attempting to steal, you still accomplish something by trying," he says. "Nothing ever is really wasted. Even if you bunt and foul the ball off you still can break a pitcher's rhythm.

IMPORTANT

"What the fans and the writers consider little things can be very important to a ballplayer. Ty Cobb said he used to set up pitchers as long as two-three years in advance. I read that in his book. I recommend it."

Much was made over the fact that Wills was seriously hampered by a wide assortment of aches, pains and bruises during last year's three-game playoff with the Giants. That happened to be completely true but Wills worried that some might consider it an alibi.

Questioned about his physical shape now, Maury paused a moment, then said:

"I'll say yes; I'm all right. Just let it go at that."

Prodded, Wills admitted he did say a few weeks back that he had played a good part of the season "on one leg."

SENSITIVE

"When that got into the paper, a guy came over to me and said, 'What are you moaning about? You don't know how lucky you are,'" Wills recalled.

The Dodger shortstop confesses he has been treated "wonderfully" by the press but still is sensitive about some of the things written about him. It obviously hurts when he reads that some think he's slipping on defense.

"Until I lot my wallet this spring," he said. "I kept a clipping that quoted Dick Groat. He said I was the best shortstop in the league and that I made all the plays."

Mickey Mantle Faces 'Another' Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—It's "fairly definite" that Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' $100,000-a-year outfielder who has undergone operations ranging from his toes to his tonsils, will be forced into still another right after the World Series.

Official confirmation of the need for an operation on Mantle—for removal of loose cartilage in his left leg — came from Dr. Sidney Gaynor, only hours before the 31-year-old slugger was scheduled to lead the Yankees onto the field for the Series' opener against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dr. Gaynor said that if Mantle underwent surgery immediately after the Series, he would have three months in which to recuperate before spring training and "we would expect him to be back in top physical condition by then."

Mantle, who has undergone a series of operations during an injury-plagued 13-year major league career, discussed the damaged leg in the Yankee dressing room before taking his final workout.

"If it doesn't get any better, it'll have to be operated on," admitted Mantle. "It's been getting stronger day by day, but as it stands now, we think it's going to be operated on."

Stanford's Injury Situation Bright

STANFORD (UPI)—Stanford's fullback situation appeared brighter today as the team readied for UCLA.

Fullback Glenn Myers, who suffered a shoulder dislocation in the opening game, was back in action yesterday wearing a harness. Fullback Dan Conaway, thought doubtful, said he would be able to play Saturday.

Oakland Raiders' Tackle May Be Out For Season

TAKLAND (UPI) — Offensive right tackle Frank Youso of the Oakland Raiders, lost to the team for at least three weeks, returned to Oakland yesterday.

Youso may be out for the season if physicians decide that surgery is required on an injured knee. His place was being taken by Dick Klein.

Center Jim Otto and back Clem Daniels were both reported still hurting, but expected to play for the Raiders Saturday night against the Buffalo Bills.

Las Gallinas Golf Finals Next Week

World Series Tickets To Go On Sale

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers will place 6,000 tickets for World Series Games in Dodger Stadium on sale Friday, starting at 11 a.m.

The Dodger management said they will be single game tickets—2,000 for each of the three games scheduled in Los Angeles. There will be three prices—$4, $8 and $12.

The tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis, with a limit of two tickets to a customer. There will be three ticket lines, one for each of the games Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The lines will be set up at the Dodger ticket office on Stadium Way, adjacent to the Naval Armory.

If season boxholders did not avail themselves of the option to buy their World Series tickets before the deadline that now has passed, their tickets will be added to the 6,000 allocated for Friday's sale.

USC Trojans Damon Bame Is Named Lineman Of Week

NEW YORK (AP)—It was hotter than blazes in Memorial Coliseum at Los Angeles last Saturday where Oklahoma regained national prominence in college football by upsetting Southern California 17-12.

But the 105-degree temperature didn't faze Damon Bame, Southern Cal's All-America guard. The Trojans' first defeat in 13 games couldn't be traced to him. His outstanding performance earned him the nod today as the Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

Bame turned in a superb game, one of the best defensive games in USC records. He made five unassisted tackles, nine aided tackles and got assists on 12 others. Coach John McKay could have used some more Bames.

Jimmy Jones of Wisconsin and Lee Sampson of New Mexico State, both ends, were high up in the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the weekly AP poll.

Jones caught six passes for 100 yards and made the key play in Wisconsin's winning drive in the closing minutes against Notre Dame. He made a circus catch with one hand good for 16 yards and a first down on the ND 15. The Badgers went on to win 14-9.

Sampson was an offensive and defensive terror against Arizona State. He romped 80 yards for a touchdown on the old end-around play and gained 15 yards on the same play on another occasion.

Marin Catholic 'C' Cagers Win, 28-21

Marin Catholic's Class C cagers defeated the Redwood Little Giants 28-21 yesterday at Marin Catholic High School.

Tim Lenehan with 10 points and Steve Frarie with 7 paced the Wildcats' attack.

Prep Gridder Is Fatally Injured

COKATO, Minn. (AP) — A 16-year-old Cokato High School football player died last night without regaining consciousness after being injured in a game last Friday.

He was Jeffrey Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Peterson.

Ron Nelson, head football coach, said Jeffrey left the field after making a tackle, then fell down. He was taken to a hospital. A doctor said the youth suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Varsity basketball player Don Floberg of Lake Geneva, Wis., was medalist with a 73 in the intramural golf tournament over Michigan State's Forest Akers course this spring.

TIPS FROM AN OLD PRO

Three San Rafael boys get some punting advice recently from an expert in preparation for the 1963 "Punt, Pass and Kick" competition. Doing the instructing is Tommy Davis, kicking star of the San Francisco 49ers and leading punter in the NFL last year. The boys, all 8 years old, are from left: Douglas Long, 820 Penny Royal Lane; Victor Jameson, 843 Del Ganado Road, and Gregory Chapman, 898 Penny Royal Lane. The three lads will be competing in a PP&K contest conducted by Ames Ford Sales in San Rafael in mid-October. "Punt, Pass and Kick" is sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America. Boys wishing to take part must register at Ford dealerships by Oct. 11.

Yanks Relegate 1962 Hero Ralph Terry To The Bullpen

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—One year made a tremendous difference in the life of big Ralph Terry but the tall pitcher from Oklahoma shrugs off the quirks of fate with the studied analysis that "a man has to be realistic."

One year ago as the New York Yankees went into the World Series, Terry was one of their most potent pitching guns. He had led the American League with 23 triumphs and he followed up wtih two wins in the Series, capping a big year with a 1-0 victory over the Giants in a heart-stopping finale.

This year he is practically ignored as the Yankees got ready to go in against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The talk this time is of Whitey Ford and two younger men, Al Downing and Jim Bouton. And the proven mop-up man in the late innings is Hal Reniff.

Terry, it was alluded, would be in the bullpen for a "long inning" relief job. If, in other words, the starter was kayoed early in the game.

"How come Terry is in the bullpen?" somebody asked Yankee Manager Ralph Houk.

The iron major fixed the questioner with a pair of icy eyes and there was barbed wire in his tone as he said:

"I'll pitch whoever I think best."

Houk hasn't come out and said pointedly that Terry is in the rocking chair brigade. But he said that Ford will start the first game, Downing the second and Bouton the third. Which, with a day off for travel to the Coast after the first two, brings Ford back again in the rotation. Barring the possibility that the weak-hitting Dodgers will play bombs away early against one of the starters, Terry may view this one from afar.

But he accepts it philosophically, by no gesture or inflection hinting that he might be disgruntled after another year in which he led the league in complete games and innings pitched.

"I didn't have a bad year," pondered the 27-year-old right hander who won 17 while losing 15. "But I didn't have a good year, either. Some of those I lost could have gone my way but, then, on the other hand, some of those I won could have gone the other way."

There is no jealousy in the slender pitcher whose main fault, if he has one, is that he refuses to "brush back" the hitters and they therefore can take a toehold against him.

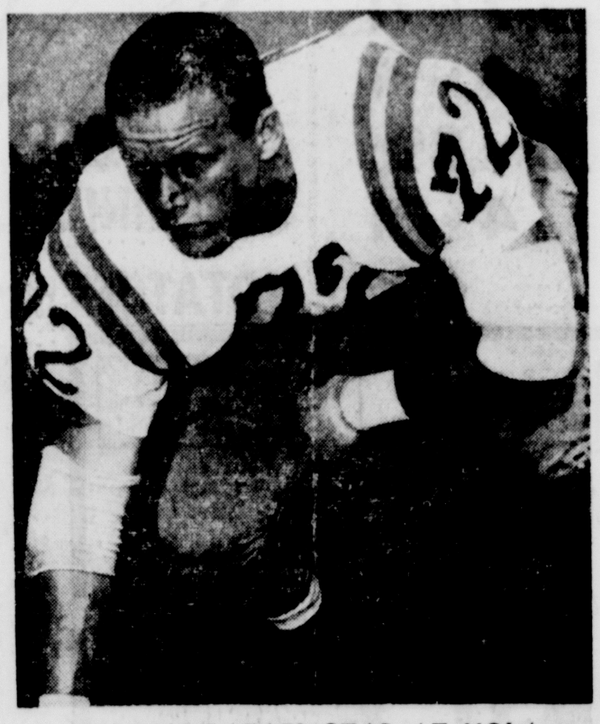
"Bouton is the best right-hander in the American League today," he observes quietly. "And you can't get away from the fact that Downing has pitched so well he deserves a start."

No alibi. No recriminations. And the Yankees know full well that the workhorse pitcher will give them his best at all times. He doesn't know any other way to go.

"Whatever I can do," he said, looking forward to the Series, "I'll do. But whatever it is, I'm hungry to do a good job."

Houk, scheming to get the best tools working against the Dodgers, admits that "Terry could play a big part for us."

But it has to be small consolation as he looks back on the headlines of just a year ago.



EX-SAN RAFAEL STAR AT UCLA

Kent Francisco (above), former All-League star for San Rafael High School and now regarded as UCLA's outstanding tackle, will lead the Bruins against Stanford's Indians at Stanford Saturday. The 225-pound, 6-foot-2, 21-year-old Francisco is a junior at UCLA.

S.R. Youngster Hooks, Conquers 52-Pound Salmon

San Rafael teen-ager Bob Tuthill Jr. was the hero of a fishing party Sunday as he hooked, played and finally conquered a whopping 52-pound salmon off Muir Beach.

Young Tuthill was a guest of a fishing party for employees of the Martinez Electric Co., Mill Valley, aboard the charter boat Ginnie C, skippered by Henry Carison.

It took the youngster approximately one hour to subdue the salmon in a thrilling battle.

Marin Group To See Stanford's New Rah-Rah-Recruiting Movie

Stanford's new and unique recruiting device, "Stanford For You," will be the center of attraction at tomorrow night's dinner meeting of the university's Marin alumni group—and from what we hear, there won't be a dry eye in the house.

The Old Reds in attendance probably will boo-hoo openly as they watch the new film glorify the campus, athletes and history of the school so close to their hearts.

The Marin premier of the film will take place at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael. Its intention is to sway a wavering prospective student — athlete — into registering at the Farm.

Walt Gamage of Palo Alto, a hard-bitten newsman, tells us the film received rave notices from some 40 other hard-bitten scribes at a recent preview on the peninsula.

The 15-minute reel boils the blood of red-blooded Stanfords with clips of Pete Kmetovic's unforgettable punt return against Nebraska in the 1941 Rose Bowl and Bob Mathias' thrilling 94-yard runback of a kickoff through the entire Southern California team in 1951.

Other highlights include shots of the U. S.-Russian track meet at Stanford in addition to such non-sports scenes as the campus, skiing in the Sierra, surfing at Santa Cruz, Stanford's European campuses, San Francisco cable cars and pictures of outstanding members of the school's faculty.

It will be distributed to far-off alumni groups for showing to prospective students who otherwise wouldn't get the opportunity to visit Palo Alto.

The film actually isn't a university product. It was produced by a group of alumni headed by ex-Stanford pitcher Bob Murphy at a cost of $4,000.

Murphy, an office visitor the other day, commented: "This is only the first edition. Maybe we'll put out a new film every year. The material is there."

Tomorrow's meeting of the Stanford Club of Marin also will be featured by the personal appearances of athletic director Chuck Taylor and new head grid coach John Ralston who figure to profit — athletic talent-wise — by the film.

Marin's Ernie Nevers, the all-time great Stanford fullback, also will take a bow. The film may even convince ol' Ern to re-enroll on the Farm. They could use him.

TAKE IT or leave it, but our choice is the Yankees in six games.

MARIN'S Carrol Varner and Denny Untermann, winners of $25 apiece in the San Francisco Arm-Wrestling Championships the other night, may have to return the loot. They're amateur weightlifters for the MarVel A.C. and the Amateur Athletic Union frowns on its members collecting cash prizes.

RALPH CHATOIAN, our right hand man in this department, has recovered from a broken toe he suffered in a recent horseshoe pitching contest. "That's the last time I'll wear tennis shoes while playing horseshoes," he groaned just after the accident. Someone suggested next time he WEAR the horseshoes and pitch the tennis shoes.

JOHN PAGLIARO, coach of the outstanding Redwood Junior Giants in the Pop Warner Football Conference, also serves as a volunteer fireman — and it was that duty that helped him catch one of his players violating a strict rule.

Pagliaro insists that each player care for his uniform properly during the season—and that means it should be carefully stored away between each game. Well, one night a fire broke out in one of his player's homes, routing the family. Guess which volunteer fireman found a certain player's uniform in disarray?

7 Marinites In Reno Golf Tourney

Seven Marin County golfers will play in one of the biggest amateur golf tournaments on the West Coast—the Mug Hunt sponsored by the Holiday Hotel in Reno on Oct. 14, 15 and 16.

The golfers include Louis Della Valle, San Rafael; Edward Hutchinson, Kentfield; Dr. Carroll Paulson, San Rafael; Victor Regalia, Fairfax; Mark Sanford, San Rafael; N. P. (Nick) Slobodnak, Fairfax; George Steinart, San Rafael.

The Mug Hunt — so-called because the prizes for the amateur linksmen are sterling silver mugs — will be played over the sporty Hidden Valley and Washoe Golf Club courses in Reno. It is a 54-hole event.

THURMAN IS MOST VALUABLE FOR M.V. '9'

Pitcher-outfielder Fred Thurman and Tommy Austin were honored as the outstanding 1963 season performers of the Mill Valley Merchants semi-pro baseball team Saturday night at the annual Mill Valley Old Timers dinner-dance.

Thurman won the most valuable player award and Austin the "Sportsman Award." Presentations were made by Mill Valley Mayor Joseph Sheeks and Russ Hodges, announcer for the San Francisco Giants.

On Sunday the Merchants rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to edge the Old Timers, 8-7, in their annual game.

DODGER FAN RUBS IT IN

When Herbert C. Belben Jr. (kneeling) awoke the other morning he found this tombstone planted on the front lawn of his home at 650 Rosal Way, Santa Venetia. It didn't take Belben, an avid fan of the San Francisco Giants, long to figure out how it got there. Neighbor Robert M. Musson (right) of 640 Rosal Way, an equally avid Dodger fan, was just rubbing in the fact that his beloved Bums were the National League champs and the Giants? Well, the Giants is dead. Ivy League Teams Start Big

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a distinct Ivy League tinge in the first set of team football statistics issued this season by the NCAA Service Bureau.

After just one game each, Pennsylvania is the national major college leader in total offense, rushing offense and scoring. Princeton leads in total defense and rushing defense and Cornell in punting.

Rutgers, a favorite playmate of the Ivies, is tops in forward pass defense and Columbia, Harvard, Dartmouth and Yale are among the leaders in various team statistical departments. The non-Ivy leader in forward passing offense is Southern Methodist.

Noting this somewhat unusual situation, the NCAA statisticians point out that teams somewhat better known in football, notably the three service academies — Navy, Air Force and Army, have compiled somewhat more impressive statistics for two games each.

Leaders among the major teams that have been out twice are Navy in total offense and forward passing, Navy and Air Force tied in scoring, Georgia Tech in total defense and rushing defense and The Citadel in pass defense.

Navy's strong offensive showing is due largely to the passing of quarterback Roger Staubach, the individual leader in total of offense and No. 2 in passing. The Midshipmen have gained 884 yards—486 by passing—for an average just 10 points below Penn's 452 yards for one game against Lafayette. Navy and Air Force have scored 79 points each in two games.

They Make Salt Water Fresh

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Efficient conversion of salt water to fresh, a problem which has occupied man's thoughts for years, has been tackled with marked success by two chemical consultants, one from San Francisco and one from Greenbrae.

Instead of the costly process of boiling the water and condensing the vapors, these men used the freezing method. Their method, with several refinements, has been successfully tested in a pilot plant at Oxnard, Ventura County.

Dr. Manuel H. Gorin of 35 Corte Ramon, Greenbrae, explained today that there are many refinements still to be made—aimed mainly at reducing costs.

He and Dr. Ludwig Rosenstein of San Francisco have been working together to develop the process since 1952. This summer they received a U.S. patent on their invention.

There are other converting methods that use freezing to free salt from water, but the Gorin-Rosenstein method employs a means of heat exchange that reduces cost.

Doctor Gorin explained the process in this way:

The salt water coming into the plant is pre-cooled. This is done by circulating it next to the cold brine and fresh water from the final stage of the process.

After pre-cooling, the salt water is frozen by expanding a refrigerant through it. The refrigerant, a hydrocarbon compound, is released directly into the salt water. As the refrigerant expands, it turns to a vapor and is recovered above the surface of the ice. The salt remains in a concentrated brine, the ice being frozen fresh water.

The direct contact of refrigerant greatly reduces costs in the heat-exchange process, Doctor Gorin explained. It is what makes their method different from others.

The next step is freeing the frozen water from the slush of unfrozen brine. This is done in a vertical tank. Ice rising in the tank acts as a piston, forcing the brine off through outlets in the side of the tank.

The icy fresh water at the top of the tank is circulated back to the freezing chamber where its chilling temperature aids in the condensation of the hydrocarbon refrigerant.

Doctor Gorin said the pilot plant in Oxnard had a maximum of 2,700 gallons per day. He did not give figures on costs, explaining that getting cost factors was not the prime purpose of the pilot plant.

He figures that costs would be greatly reduced in a larger plant, with proportionate consumption of fuel being reduced in the compression of the refrigerant.

North American Aviation Inc. built the Oxnard pilot plant. Doctor Gorin said he belives North American will soon be developing a commercial plant.

Doctor Gorin said use of converted sea water for agriculture is a long way off. Water from plants such as the one he has developed would probably be used as domestic water in large cities that would otherwise be forced to transport the water long distances. It is the transportation cost that he and Doctor Rosenstein are trying to beat with their process.

Doctor Gorin, a native of New York City, has been a Marin resident four years.

In 1948 he became associated with Doctor Rosenstein, once a member of the faculty at University of California and former assistant to the president of Shell Oil Co.

Student Body Card Prices Are Lowered

Student body cards at Redwood High School are selling at an increased pace this year as the result of a $1 drop in price to $2.50.

There have been 1,250 cards sold so far this year, "far ahead of other years at the same time," reported John Cook, finance committee adviser. For the first five years, the price was $3.50, but because of a reserve the price was lowered this year, he said.

Parts From Hearse Stolen In San Rafael

Theft of $149 worth of parts from a 1951 Cadillac hearse parked near 1893 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was reported to police yesterday by Leonard Bruce Wistrand of 65 Canal Street. Wistrand said the parts were stolen sometime Sunday night.

The hearse, which is painted blue, is apparently used for pleasure driving, according to police.

Fire Prevention To Be Stressed

Third, fourth, fifth graders at Hoffman and Santa Magarita schools in Terra Linda will learn about fire safety next week under a program worked out by Fire Chief Richard Flaherty in conjunction with fire prevention week.

Clastic fire helmets will be distributed to the two schools beginning Monday, along with comic books and brochures emphasizing home safety checks.

"The whole idea is to acquaint the youngsters with fire safety and to prevent fires before they start," said Chief Flaherty.

Big Transit Headaches Facing Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — This megalopolis has a king-size transit headache but a monorail system, costing a relatively modest $123 million, could provide relief, according to an industrialist.

Sixten Holmquist, president of the Wegematic Corp., asserts his firm could build a monorail which could be financed out of the fare box—without a tax subsidy.

The Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA), a public agency which operates major buslines in this area, has shown interest in Holmquist's plan.

Holmquist's claim that a monorail system would not require any tax support is calculated to meet with the approval of property owners and others interested in fighting tax increases.

Some MTA engineers are skeptical about Holmquist's plan but they don't want to commit themselves publicly as being against it until he has had a full hearing.

Holmquist made his announcement on the monorail shortly after the MTA fell flat on its face when it suggested that a special property tax be levied to finance a 58-mile combination subway and surface train system costing $649 million. The MTA wanted the state legislature to earmark 15 cents as a maximum on each $100 assessed valuation to provide the cash. Property owners howled and the MTA withdrew its proposal, calling it a "mistake."

As a result, Holmquist received pleasant reception when he offered his tax-free $123 million monorail plan. He said a monorail is less expensive to construct than a subway or a double-track elevated line.

Holmquist says a monorail's construction cost is $3 million a mile, compared with the MTA's surface-subway system cost of $11 million. And he says he has financing available through a Wall Street investment firm.

Out of the estimated $123 million cost for the monorail, Holmquist said, about $14 million would be used to purchase rights-of-way. The system would link the Civic Center with the west Los Angeles area, with El Monte to the east and with the San Fernando Valley to the north.

Holmquist also said his group would submit a plan to pay off the MTA's current indebtedness of approximately $41 million.

The monorail concept is not new to southern California. Walt Disney has one operating in his famed amusement park.

The Disney monorail is one of the most popular and useful attractions at Disneyland, according to park engineer John Wise.

Advantages of the monorail cited by both Wise and Disney are that it is noiseless, it operates on electricity and spews no smelly exhaust fumes.

Standard Double Bed On Way Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — The standard double bed is on the way out because Americans are growing bigger all the time. But togetherness will continue, according to bedding manufacturers, who have decided to replace the standard bed with people-sized beds.

The dimensions of the double bed were established more than 100 years ago, when a six-footer was a rarity. Since then, Americans, both male and female, have shot upward in height and weight. For instance, Amercan soldiers today average an inch and a half taller and 78 pounds heavier than the doughboy of World War I.

This means that many modern Americans must either sleep in a crouch or dangle their feet over the foot board.

Two major obstacles prevented bedding manufacturers from increasing the size of beds when public demand for bigger beds first became apparent. First, available accessories such as sheets, blankets and bedspreads were too small for bigger beds, and second, the average housewife dreaded the thought of wrestling with a bigger, heavier mattress.

Linens and blankets are larger beds are now stocked in most department stores. The second problem has been solved by use of latex foam rubber mattresses that don't need turning, and a wide variety of special devices, such as hinged mattresses or twin mattresses placed under one headboard.

Customer acceptance of supersized bedding is growing steadily. The nation's largest mattress manufacturer reports that more than 25 per cent of sales this year are in extra sizes.

Gathering Wild Plants

WASHINGTON (AP)—A team of U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists is going to Russia to collect wild plants. A Russian team may come to America for the same purpose.

East Texans Have Their Own Way Of Talking

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A Texan named E. Bagby Atwood has become the Noah Webster of the East Texas piney woods by turning the techniques of scholarly research to a probe of how the denizens of that region talk.

"Hant," Atwood explains, is ghost or spirit, not to be confused with "hain't," meaning "ain't."

East Texans don't talk about wishbones, Atwood says. It's the "pullybone" they wish on. And a woodpecker, Atwood says, becomes a "peckerwood."

Other East Texanisms:

1. "Catty-wampus" — diagonally.
2. "Christmas gift!"—Christmas morning greeting.
3. "Dad-gum!"—mild expletive.

Engineer Salaries

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Illinois Institute of Technology reports it pays to be an engineer if starting salaries are any criterion. Illinois Tech said its graduates start out with salaries three times greater than the average national per capita income recorded by the Department of Commerce.

Fellow Really Needs First Aid

TRENTON, Mo. (AP) — "We need first aid," said a spokesman for a group of young men who approached the nurse's station at the North Central Missouri Fair.

Mrs. Harold Hamilton, nurse on duty, noting most of the group seemed to be shielding one member, asked if she could help.

"Yes," replied the spokesman handing her a badly torn pair of trousers. "Can you patch these so our friend here can get home. We came over the fence but he didn't quite make it."

Punishment Fits The Crime

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Hendrik Badenhorst, a convicted thief, repented his crimes fiftyfold in the Salisbury magistrate's court

He sat in a court office and laboriously he wrote out 50 times: "I am sorry for my crimes. I promise to go straight in future."

This punishment — usually the kind meted out to errant schoolboys—was given to Badenhorst by magistrate Dennis Close after he found him guilty of stealing gasoline, failing to pay an hotel bill, two charges of fraud and using a car without the owner's consent.

Magistrate Close piled up a sentence of 19 months' imprisonment against Badenhorst, a 29-year-old farm manager, but told him:

"I think you're still young enough to make a fresh start so I'll suspend this sentence on condition you write repentance for your crimes 50 times and that you don't commit similar crimes again. I believe this punishment will impress these court proceedings on your mind and help you go straight in the future."

Pleasure Is Gone From Beer Drinking

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — What's a taste for beer worth?

Pat Headrick, who used to like the stuff, says about $20,000. He has filed federal court suit against a brewing company claiming he was served a bottle of contaminated beer, became violently ill and as a result lost his appetite for beer. The suit asks $20,000 damages for "deprivation of pleasure and enjoyment to which he is entitled."

National Forests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Timber cut from national forests set a record of 10 billion board feet in the year ended June 30, government figures show. This compares with the previous peak of 9.4 billion in 1959-60.

Japanese Now Keeping Up With The Joneses

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese have borrowed a North American idea that will let them keep up with the Suzukis without actually buying anything.

The Suzukis (the Joneses) suddenly sprout, say, a lush new car, furniture, power boat, swimming pool and a merry-go-round for the kids.

The Satos (the Smiths) now can bounce right back with the same—and more if they wish.

They can rent it — from Japan's first leasing firm that suddenly has emerged Lease it — don't buy it.

The Japan Lease International is the brainchild of Kiyoshi Ichimura, president of Ricoh Company Ltd.

He has the Suzukis and Satos in mind—but his main targets are the Japanese businessman, manufacturer and contractor.

He hopefully looks to the day when the Japanese executive will rise from a rented bed to a blast from a rented alarm, down a breakfast off rented dishes, doff a rented kimono to get into a rented suit, kiss his unleased wife goodbye, leave his rented house in a rented car driven by a rented chauffeur, light a morning cigar by a rented lighter.

And, then enter his rented office, settle into a rented chair, lean on a rented desk and pick up a rented pen to perform his job as an executive who himself may be on lease.

Far fetched? Not in Ichimura's scheme of things.

An idea of the scope of his plans can be had by a look at these items for rent:

Living room furniture, stoves, refrigerators, room coolers, cash registers, electronic computers, cars, trucks, a helicopter, concrete mixers, cultivators, dredge boats, typewriters, bulldozers, elevators and escalators, yachts, water skis, boats, trolleys for children and jet coasters, and the complete facilities for manufacturing plants, supermarkets and bowling alleys.

He already has equipped the International Youth Center here with a bowling alley, a swimming pool, a movie theatre, a planetarium and billeting facilities for overseas travelers it will care for.

What got Ichimura into the leasing business?

A few years ago his Ricoh firm changed its administrative set-up, which meant employes had to be moved to new locations.

"We had to spend a lot of money to move their furniture," Ichimura said.

In his book, it would have been much simpler for an employe to move out of one rented house and its rented furniture and into another rented house and its rented furniture.

For the lack of a tree this brown bear ran up a power pole to escape capture near Raton, N.M. Lack of food and water has driven several bears into the area. Later this bear was chased by conservation officers into a forested section.

Nurses Find Rewards, Distress In Their Job

NEW YORK (UPI)—To a student nurse, caring for newborn babies, children, and surgical patients is the most rewarding part of her job. But the death of a patient can be a potentially strong stress, although it is one that diminishes with time and experience.

These were among the findings of a Columbia University research team which surveyed 4,000 student nurses in 29 schools of nursing to find what is satisfying or dissatisfying about their work.

College Set For Union Officials

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's Education and Research Service is offering a three-year program in various Ohio cities to train union officials and members in their duties and increase their leadership skills.

First - year subjects include labor law, collective bargaining, communications, economics and a look at unfair practices of both unions and management.

Sociology, political science and union leadership are taken up in the second year, and the third will be devoted to labor history, bureaucracy, comparison of political and economic systems, and contemporary labor problems.

Boom On 'Burgers In United States

CHICAGO (UPI) — Americans consume 21 billion hamburgers every year—about 116 for every man, woman and child—according to a Chicago restaurateur who sells quite a few of them himself.

Thirty years ago the hot dog was THE American dish. President Franklin D. Roosevelt even served hot dogs to the visiting king and queen of England.

The estimate is based on available statistics on beef consumption which show five billion pounds of hamburgers are sold annually in the United States.

Women Make Up 21.1 Per Cent Of Workers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1960 census showed that employed women, numbering 21.1 million, constituted nearly one third of the total civilian working population in the United States.

The proportion varied but little from one area of the country to another, ranging from nearly 31 per cent in the Mountain States to about 35 per cent in the New England division. Women in white collar jobs constitute the largest segment of employed females.

American Parents Face Many Serious Problems

CHICAGO (UPI) — Delinquency, school dropouts, juvenile unemployment and teen-age drinking and smoking add up to big problems for American parents.

Mrs. Clifford N. Jenkins, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said so. But she is not dismal about the future. "They are problems that can be solved—not predicaments from which there is no way out."

High Styles From Eskimos

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Wearing apparel that took shape in the hands of Eskimos in the western Arctic will go on sale here.

Victor Vokes of the federal Northern Affairs Department says it will be expensive.

Sealskin and muskrat parkas will retail at about $300 and embroidered wool parkas will bring about $70, he estimated.

Originality will be one selling point. The Eskimo has an aversion to repeating his designs and working to color specifications. He prefers to work up his ideas and work out the design by eye as he goes along.

Tax Secretaries

NEW YORK (UPI) — It takes the federal income tax of six average families to keep one feminine secretary on the federal payroll. Tax Foundation, Inc., says besides her salary of $4,345 a year, the secretary entails government expenditure of $704 more for her space, desk, typewriter and supplies.

Safe For Fish

PORTLAND (UPI) — Careful seismic underwater explosions in oil exploration are virtually harmless to fish, the Oregon Fish commission has reported. But the commission warned that the oil explorers must use fish scanners and avoid explosions too close to fish schools.

Monks Have Abbey In Ozark Mountains

SUBIACO, Ark. (UPI) — The thin mountain air was hushed with the expectancy of an Ozark evening turning to night. Then the deep boom of bells sounded from the tower of the sandstone monastery on the hill.

For more than 85 years, the bells have called priests and brothers of the Order of St. Benedict to hours of prayer, work and study. Since New Subiaco Abbey was founded in 1878, the cluster of red-roofed buildings has been a world of its own to its inhabitants.

Hundreds of monks have walked the cool, dim hallways of the quiet monastery in prayerful meditation.

Following rules prescribed by their order's founder, St. Benedict, who established his first monastery at Subiaco, Italy, early in the sixth century, the monks have had little contact with the outside world.

In the lush fields of the Abbey's 1,500 acres, brothers planted, tended and harvested crops for their tables. Their saw mill sliced lumber for buildings and repairs; from their stone quarry they carved native sandstone for further expansion.

Their dairy and beef cattle yielded milk, cheese and fine beef for their kitchens; hog and poultry stock provided pork, eggs and meals of chicken.

In the shadow of the four-story, quadrangle-shaped main building, the Benedictine priests taught boys and young men in the Abbey Academy, or high school, and in the Scholasticate for seminarians.

Until now, visitors have come to the monastery in small numbers—mainly families of monks and students.

"From now on, we will be able to offer more people the opportunity for a rewarding visit to the Abbey, plus the comforts of modern lodgings," said the Rt. Rev. Abbot Michael Lensing, O.S.B., head of the monastery and president of the Subiaco Academy for Boys.

A modern, $500,000 retreat and guest house cradled on the side of the abbey hill was dedicated April 28, climaxing more than two years construction work and "many years of dreams," Father Michael said. The 40-room building will accommodate large retreat groups as well as relatives and friends.

The guest house, named for Miami, Fla., patron George Coury, was constructed, like other abbey buildings, of sandstone, native oak and pine timber taken from surrounding acres. Benedictine brothers worked side by side with construction men to get the job done.

Subiaco Abbey, one of about 275 Benedictine monasteries in the world and the oldest one in the Deep South, boasts one of the most modern churches in the Arkansas diocese. Consecrated in April, 1959, the huge church is the focal point in the lives of the abbey's approximately 60 priests, 30 brothers, 300 students and seminarians and half-dozen sisters.

One enters the church through tall oak doors and is confronted by a view of a huge crucifix suspended over a marble altar. The gleaming cross hangs from a dome-shaped canopy covered with gold leaf and supported by four, 16-foot pillars of Botticino marble from Germany.

Immediately behind the main altar are choir stalls—40 on each side of the Sacristy, facing each other — where the priests sit to chant back and forth during services. The church has 18 altars, a chapel for the Abbot and another for the brothers.

Fort Dodge Is Now Old Soldiers' Home

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP) — Established in 1864 to protect settlers and travelers from bands of marauding Indians along the Santa Fe trail, Fort Dodge is still in use.

The ancient stone buildings five miles east of Dodge City now house the Kansas State Soldiers Home.

Galvanized Steel Takes Place In U.S. Industry

NEW YORK (UPI)—A one-time minor member of the steel family has become one of its most promising offspring.

It's galvanized steel, which combines the high tensile strength, ductility and rigidity of its cold rolled sheet steel base with the high corrosion protection of a low cost zinc coating.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, said it was only a few years ago that galvanized steel matured into one of the most progressive products of the nation's basic industry.

The publication said that when automobile manufacturers in 1959 began to be bothered by the increasing use of salts and chemically treated sands to clear high speed highways of snow and ice, extensive research revealed the best answer to the problem was galvanized steel.

How successful galvanized has been is reflected in statistics compiled from the auto manufacturers:

—Between 1961 and 1962 shipments of standard-size car models using galvanized steel in part jumped to 24 from 6.

—Compact car models jumped to 17 in 1962 from 6 in 1961. Use of galvanized increased to an average of 121 pounds per car, against an average of 46 pounds in 1961.

—Between 1951 and 1961, shipments of galvanized steel to the auto industry rose by 798 per cent—34,743 tons to 311,971 a year.

13 Million Pounds Of Aseptic Wash

BOSTON (AP)—Because washday was popping up too many times a week for Boston's numerous hospitals, they got together and solved their problem of aseptic laundering with a cooperative washing and ironing enterprise.

It was a British Army colonel, retired, who worked out the solution to the Boston problem. In two years of planning he set up the joint venture — Hospitals Laundry Assn. Inc. Col. William Smith, who was director of resources at Boston's Children's Hospital Medical Center, was able to launch the enterprise in 1961 a few months before his death.

It processed 13 million pounds of laundry a year.

Working Wives

NEW YORK (UPI) — One out of every three American wives works, according to a survey. The survey also showed that children of working mothers are not more likely than others to be emotionally disturbed or delinquent.

Officer Has Doggone Case

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —It was a doggone exasperating case, you'd have to admit.

Policeman C. A. Russell agreed to help the lady find her dog, which was lost on the beach. Sure enough, he did find it. Only he couldn't find the lady when he brought the pooch back in his car.

Then he had to leave to check another case and when he got back to the car the dog was gone again. He couldn't find it again but finally found the owner and turned the case over to her.

Stronger Dollar

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's dollar bill is lasting 30 per cent longer than it used to, according to the Manufacturing Chemists' Assn. This is the result of a specially-developed currency paper compounded from cotton, linen fibers and melamine plastic.

Cars Have Strange Accidents

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ubiquitous, hard-working automobile played the innocent patsy in some of the zaniest accidents of 1962, an insurance company reported.

Such cases as these were found in the record of the claims paid last year by the State Farm Insurance Companies:

The Equine Revenge — A driver parked his car near a corral. When he returned to it, a horse had stretched its neck through the fence and was eating the paint from the side of the car.

Bovine Jealousy — A highly polished car came within charging range of a bull which sighted its own reflection on the side of the car and went into battle. The car was badly damaged before the bull could be urged away.

The Indian War — A group of young Indians had patronized a tavern for slightly too long attacked a car with bottles, cans and other throwables. Damage came to only $80, but the legal expenses may have been greater. When the company sought to recover the amount it paid its policy holder, it found that this particular tribe never had signed a peace treaty with the United States and, according to their attorney, were not liable.

Trailer — A motorist, maneuvering to get out of a parking space, bumped a small foreign car behind him. There was no damage, but the trailer hitch on his car hooked under the bumper of the compact and it was almost two blocks later, when the driverless compact jostled loose and careened into another car, that he discovered he'd had a hitch-hiker.

Exotic Gun Stock Business Expands

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI)— Steven J. Herrett has been making exotic gun stocks for sale throughout the world for 10 years.

Now his business has really expanded.

Project Apollo officials have asked Herrett to design hand grips to be used in simulated space capsules and later in training flights for moon landings.

The purpose of the wooden stocks, Apollo officials say, is to keep the astronauts' hands where they should be during training and actual space flights.

Herrett's manufacturing business here in the largest of it's type in the country. Ninety per cent of his orders are designed specifically for a customer. Four of the five winners in the recent Pan-American games' firing competition used Herrett stocks, for instance.

Project Apollo officials, Herrett said, got hold of his stock catalogue and sent him a prototype grip to design. Herrett told the officials his concern could supply as many or as few stocks as were required and, he added, with speed.

As a result, Herrett is designing space grips.

His business started out 10 years ago as an effort to finance his participation in shooting matches.

"When I started," he said, "I had visions of making a few stocks each day then spending the rest of the time hunting and fishing.

"But hunting and fishing time is at a premium right now."

Herrett and his "loyal employees" have designed most of the machinery used to carve the stocks. Most of the wood used in stock making is walnut, although Herrett also utilizes exotic woods from many countries of the world — all depending on the whim of the man behind the gun.

Right now he is designing a gun stock for a new electric pistol, which is valued at more than $4,000.

His biggest customers are the Air Force, Army, Coast Guard and the FBI.

Foreign Fibers Found In Cloth

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—How much trouble can an old coat or colored handkerchief cause in a bale of cotton bound for the textile mill?

Texas A and M College reports that often foreign fibers are not detected until they have been spun into yarn and may not be noticed until they are made into cloth. By then, the fibers have contaminated a large volume of material and the manufacturer suffers a great loss.

Contamination usually occurs during the ginning process when fallen garments accidentally get shredded and spread through many bales.

Fossnocks? What Do You Call Them?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Maybe we Americans are spending the same kind of currency and saluting the same flag, but how about fossnocks?

Fossnocks are what some Americans call nut cakes, olicooks or crullers. Perhaps you know them as doughnuts.

Then there's the coverlid situation. That's what some Americans call bed spreads, which others call coverlets or counterpanes.

Let's go into the keeping room and talk it over. Or do you call it the sitting room, the parlor, the front room or the living room?

The above examples of disagreement as to what to call things are contained in a book by Mrs. Jean Malstrom, an associate professor of English at Western Michigan University, and Mrs. Annabel Ashley, associated with the Portland, Ore., school system.

The book, published by the National Council of Teachers of English, sets forth that decades after the passing of the old frontier Americans still talk in different dialects. We still pronounce words in a variety of ways, use an assortment of grammar and don't even agree on what to call a creek.

Some Americans call a creek a brook. To others it is a binnekill, a run, a prong, a kill, a riverlet or a binacle.

Some American kids play on a seesaw. Others call the thing a teetering board, a dandle, a ridy-horse or a teeter-totter.

We eat johnny cake, hush puppies, spoon bread, hoe cake or corn cakes and — according to the authors — it's all the same, as is Dutch cheese, smear case, pot cheese and cottage cheese.

Americans who eat too much get sick, to, at, in, on or of their stomachs. Ameircan children are liable to get a whipping, licking, smacking, skelping, skinning, blistering, thrashing, tanning or even a beating if they play hookey or truant or skip, bolt, hook, bag or skip school.

In their book, "Dialetes USA," the authors say these differences "are created by the movements of people from one region of the country to another . . . the westward movements carried speech forms from Pennsylvania west to Ohio and from New York to Michigan."

"Migrations north up the Mississippi River to southeastern Minnesota spread Midland words, the authors say. "A small area in southeastern Nebraska has certain northern speech forms apparently brought there after the Civil War by a number of New York and Ohio families who migrated west into the east Platte River Valley."

TO RACES — This topper-style hat in coffee-colored straw, with long silk scarf band that falls across a shoulder from jeweled pin, is the mode for South African racing fans.

Delinquency Trend Can Be Stopped For Some

BOSTON (UPI)—If there are storm warnings that a child is turning into a delinquent, can the course of the sociological disorder be changed?

Yes — under certain circumstances, say Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck, the husband-wife team of the Harvard Law School who have spent over 30 years studying traits distinguishing delinquents from non-delinquents. The way it's done: by furnishing skillful and timely therapy and instruction to such children and their parents.

Medic Team Hopes Monkeys Can Teach About Smoking

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A research team from the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, New York, hopes monkeys can teach man something about his smoking habits.

Elizabeth K. van Laerm, a psychologist, and Murry E. Jarvik, a pharmacologist, reported at a meeting here of the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics that they induced monkeys to become habitual cigarette smokers.

Now they hope to find out—by subtracting substances from cigarette smoke one by one—what it is the monkey, and presumably humans, craves in cigarette smoke.

The monkey was then taught to suck the mouthpiece if he wanted to smoke.

Dr. van Laerm reported the monkeys developed a strong taste for cigarette smoke in two days, and summed it up this way:

"The results taken together indicate that something exists in tobacco smoke or in the volatile products of tobacco which can act as a positive incentive for monkeys, so that they will spend some time during the day smoking in preference to other possible activities available.

Electronic System Is Described

SUNNYVALE (UPI) — When Lockheed was building single-engine planes in the early 1930s, a shout across the shop to one of its handful of production workers was usually all it took to learn the status of a particular job.

Today the company has 30,000 employees, several plants and dozens of buildings — and a new electronic system which produces the same results as the "Hey, where's the wheel strut?" sort of query did in the old days.

The system is called Automatic Data Acquisition (ADA). By using ADA, which has a phenomenal memory capable of storing up to 88 million characters of data, a Lockheed manager can get an answer to a question in minutes.

The system was designed to help speed production and control costs. Lockheed claims it will cut days and even weeks from the time spent on reporting procedures, and will save it an estimated $2.8 million dollars in operations next year at the Sunnyvale Division alone.

"We believe this new management tool is at least two years ahead of any similar system in the world today," says Executive Vice President Herschel J. Brown.

ADA is in use in Lockheed's Missile and Space Division complex here and at the firm's Van Nuys and Burbank plants. An installation is also under construction at Lockheed's Marietta, Ga., plant.

The system spreads through a factory complex much as the nerve system spreads through the human body. It consists of "nerve ends" and a central brain unit, all produced by RCA.

U.S. Landlord

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U. S. government owns so much land in Alaska that if 1.3 million acres (the size of Delaware) were taken away every day from Jan. 1, to Oct. 15, the government would still have some left over, the Tax Foundation says.

SHADES OF THE PAST

The chariot races of ancient Rome had no more thrilling climax than these chuck wagon harness teams coming down the stretch at Cheyenne, Wyo. The sport, imported from Canada, is popular at rodeos in the western United States.

Young Woman Archeologist Digs Up Etruscan Art

ROME (UPI)—At some time in the Middle Ages, people living in a village northwest of Rome apparently found the remains of a small Etruscan temple and, with the religous intolerance typical of the period, proceeded to destroy it.

They threw everything that was left of the temple into a well and sealed it with huge stone blocks.

It stayed that way until Dr. Lucia Portoghesi, slim, dark-haired young archeologist, brought out a crew of workmen recently and dug up two of the most interesting items of Etruscan art found in modern times.

They are frescoes of Etruscan warriors and dancers, painted on terra cotta about 2,500 years ago.

Dr. Portoghesi, who works for the Superintendent of Antiquities of Southern Etruria, said the style of painting is completely different than that of other Etruscan funerary art found previously in the same area.

Dr. Portoghesi made her discoveries at Ceri, a few miles from Cerveteri, the famous burial site of the mysterious Etruscan peoples, where extensive excavations were carried out in the 1930's.

By contrast with these works, Dr. Portoghesi said, the paintings she found have a greater pictoral, quality and greater vivacity of content.

"The well already had been violated by clandestine diggers when we began our excavation," she said, "but fortunately a considerable strata of animal bones discouraged them and we were able to reach several stratum that were very rich archeologically.

"In the upper stratum we found tiles and fragments of painted stone. In the lower stratum, blocks of tufa, a frame that evidently encircled the sacrificial altar and, on the bottom, in a sandy strata, tiles and cups. Practically all of the little temple that had been, was contained in the well."

Dr. Portoghesi, who directs her digging crew in slacks and blouse, now is trying to locate the original foundation of the little temple.

Odd Noises In History Of Music

NEW YORK (UPI) — High fidelity's recent plunge into space age science is not the first unearthly attempt to reproduce music faithfully.

The quest for realistic sound, which has resulted in applying to home entertainment systems the solid state devices used in rockets and missiles, has spawned some odd noises throughout musical history.

One French composer, striving for authenticity, had a huge airplane propeller put in motion during a portion of Ballet Mecanique, according to researchers of Pilot Radio Corp. It produced the effect he wanted but almost blew the audience out of the theater.

Brake drums from old automobiles were used as percussion instruments once by Leopold Stokowski in rendering Canticle No. 3. Radio technicians, armed with tuning forks, rounded them up from local junkyards just before the performance.

Other non - musical instruments employed to add a note of realism include automobile horns, typewriters, cannons and firemen. The last mentioned were part of the Firemen's Quadrille conducted by Louis Julien in 1853. About midway through the concert a fire alarm was set off and one of the musicians screamed "Fire!" At that point more than 50 firemen rushed on the stage trailing hundreds of feet of hose behind them.

Burned People Sometimes Find Miracle At Center

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Horribly burned people from all over the world come to the Surgical Research Unit at Brooke Army Medical Center looking for a miracle.

The miracle is that the Surgical Research Unit — better known as the Burn Center—saves the lives of people who, according to statistics, have no chance.

Twenty years ago, a burn over one-third of the body's surface was considered fatal. But patients burned over 70 per cent of their bodies have walked out of the Center after intensive treatment.

Recoveries such as these are rare, but they give the Burn Center's doctors, nurses and technicians hope that they can one day save a significant percentage of the patients they treat for critically severe burns.

Lt. Col. John A. Moncrief is commanding officer of the Surgical Research unit, Lt. Col. Walter E. Switzer is chief of the clinical division.

Burn victims are treated in a ward of Brooke Army Medical Center reserved for the unit.

Any member of the armed forces burned badly enough is eligible for treatment. Dependents of military personnel, retired soldiers, sailors and marines and civilian employes of the Department of Defense, burned on the job, also are eligible. Occasionally, the Center treats a civilian with no military connection.

About the time of the Korean War, the Center's researchers reached three conclusions:

The deaths of most severely burned patients come within the first 72 hours.

The ratio of percentage of total body surface burned to age can lead to a fair prediction of survival chances.

Patients can be transported safely right after they are burned if treatment is adequate and continuous.

Despite the occasional miracle, so far the percentage of mortality of the severely burned has not been really lowered, according to Burn Center researchers. Critically burned patients live longer, but the same percentage dies.

The unit pioneered the exposure method of treating burns and still uses it. Doctors do not necessarily wait for burned tissue to slough off naturally, or to be helped by enzymes and chemicals.

They sometimes removed the tissue surgically, within three or four days of the burn, to eliminate a breeding ground for bacteria.

Then they cover a patient's burn with skin grafts; his skin where possible and the skin of another person where not. The patient will not permanently accept the skin of another person, unless it is an identical twin, but the skin of another person will help keep down infection.

Eventually, the patient's burned area has to be covered with his own skin.

Colonel Switzer defines a first degree burn as one that makes the skin red, like a mild sunburn. A second degree burn is a blister type burn. It could be superficial or nearly all the way through the skin. A third degree burn goes through the skin and may involve deep tissue and even bone.

Switzer notices an increase in burns by gasoline fires and by the gas in aerosol cans, even when the cans do not contain an inflammable substance.

"Everybody has a can of gasoline in his garage now," Switzer said. "It sits there like a loaded gun. People in general have no respect for gasoline.

How Is Tourist Treated Abroad?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Do Europeans take advantage of American tourists unfamiliar with the native tongue and confused by foreign currencies?

Yes, says a Paris newspaperman who disguised himself as a visiting American to find out how foriegners are treated by Frenchmen in the City of Light. No, according to a similar survey by reporters in West Berlin.

In our own travel experiences, we have found most Europeans helpful and honest. We have held out a handful of coins and bills and invited cab drivers and others in London, Rome, Brussels and elsewhere to take what was coming to them plus the usual tip. Only once were we cheated.

But then, we also were "taken" by a cabbie in New York who drove us the long way 'round from the airport because he figured we were an out-of-towner.

According to the account he wrote for his weekly newspaper (Candide), Francois Corre said he was cheated more than 30 times during his four days in the role of an "American in Paris."

Corre said he disguised himself as an American by donning dark glasses, wearing clothes he had brought in New York when he lived there. Carrying a camera and effecting a "nasal mid-western accent."

He also hired an American model to portray his "wife."

Corre wrote he was shortchanged by eight of the 19 taxicab drivers he hired. Another driver insisted the "Americans" visit a certain restaurant where the doorman tipped the cabbie.

Corre said that when they entered the restaurant, a bottle of champagne already was on the table. The bill came to 200 francs ($40), including the champagne which they did not order, he said.

At one famed night club, he complained the waiter never came back with his change. A waiter at another restaurant did—but whisked it away when Corre did not immediately pick up the 35 francs ($7).

Corre also said cabbies, cigaret girls, restroom attendants and bellboys constantly pursued and harassed him with cries of "Tip me!"

They counted on my timidity, on the feeling of inferiority one has in a foreign country where you don't know the language," Corre wrote.

Things are far different in West Berlin, according to the two West Berlin newspaper (Morgenpost) reporters who wandered through the city for 16 hours with American dollar bills.

To pass themselves on as American tourists, the reporters hung cameras around their necks, wore colored sport shirts hanging outside their trousers, and straw hats. For good measure, they chewed gum and spoke only in English and broken German.

They said taxi drivers always gave the right change, souvenir shops did not overcharge, restaurants recommended inexpensive meals and even the night clubs gave them a fair shake for their money.

"We weren't cheated once," they reported. "Berlin is honest, above all to its guests."

Drastic Measure For Attention

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Mrs. Albert M. Knudsen of Des Moines was in her kitchen enjoying a lively chat with her sister-in-law, Shirley McCollister of Omaha.

The telephone rang. It was Western Union with a message asking Mrs. Knudsen what her plans were for the evening. The telegram had been sent by her husband from an extension telephone at their home.

His explanation: "I went to the kitchen three times to ask the girls what they wanted to eat and when. But they were so busy talking I couldn't get a word in edgeways."

Hobby Center Built Into New Houses

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—At least one district new home builder is keeping the man of the house in mind when it comes to "built-in" features.

This "appliance" for men is a complete hobby center consisting of a modeler's bench, potting cabinet, work bench and moveable table in addition to the latest thing in assorted power tools. At present, the home featuring the hobby center sells in the $38,500 range.

Aluminum From Sky Attacks His Auto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The automobile of Charles Morris Sr., 58, came under attack from some quarter and Morris thinks it may have been from the air.

He told police a clanging, banging, noise brought him rushing from his house to check the car. He found it had been hit by a number of aluminum nuts and bolts. Morris said no one was in sight, leading him to theorize the nuts and bolts might have fallen from an airplane.

EYE OPENER—With help of an enterprising photographer Dondi Forrester Smith, an English sheepdog, has a clearer view of competition at a New York dog show.

Man, 22, Went 'Round In Circles

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two men gave Dave Matthews, 22, a ride he'll never forget.

For no apparent reason, they picked him up, thrust him into a clothes drier at a coin-operated laundry, put a coin in the slot and walked away.

Matthews whirled around in the hot drier several times, but the machine broke before he could be injured. A passerby heard his cries for help and freed him.

14,123 Are Killed On Highways In Germany

BONN (UPI)—German drivers seem to consider their cars to be chargers and the highways tourney places where they mount their steeds to joust with one another.

As a result, 14,123 persons died in car crashes last year.

The courts finally are making an effort to do something about death on the highways.

The convictions of two coerce others on the highways" were recently upheld by the Federal Court.

West Germany is justly proud of its fine four-lane autobahns. There are 2,920 kilometers (2,125 miles) of them.

Bicycles and horses are banned from the autobahns, but any other kind of vehicles can and do use them, ranging from 12 horsepower midgets through trucks and trailers hauling 12 tons of cargo to racy sports cars that reach 100 miles per hour.

Slow lanes have been built on some of the steepest slopes in recent years. But for most of the length of the autobahn all this conglomeration of vehicles shares two lanes in each direction.

Drivers of slow cars seem jealous of the bigger ones and refuse to make room. Big car drivers consider it an insult to have to follow a smaller or slower vehicle.

The two recent Federal Court verdicts concerned typical autobahn maneuvers.

One involved a young man from Frankfurt, driving along a section of the autobahn which has a 100 kph (62 mph) speed limit.

Moving in the left lane, the fellow drove to within 30 feet of another car driven by a woman who was going just the allowed speed and slowly overtaking a pair of trucks. The man honked his horn and flashed his lights. He saw the woman ahead glance at him in her rear vision mirror but she remained in the left lane, slowly gaining on the trucks.

The man grew impatient. Still honking, he gunned his motor until he was within six or eight feet of the woman. She saw him close in, decided he was trying to ram her and cut hard right. But she was too close to the truck in that lane, and had to brake hard. She lost control, went off the road, and flipped over. Miraculously, she was only slightly hurt.

In the other case, a car driver in the Ruhr found himself behind a bus in the left lane slowly overhauling a line of trucks.

The effrontery of the bus driver trying to pass trucks made the car driver so furious that as soon as he could get around the bus he cut sharply in front of it and slowed down.

Younger Homeowners Paying On Mortgage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Want a good bet? Next time five home owners under 45 years old congregate, the chances are that four of them will be paying off mortgages. They will be among some nine million heads of families in their age group living in mortgaged single-family houses.

This information comes from William J. Levitt, president of Levitt and Sons, Inc., who says "the young man with a mortgage on his home is right in step with the housing economy of our times."

25 Huge Trucks Get Copper Ore

SILVER CITY, N. M. (UPI)— A crude bucket made of buffalo hide was used to bring copper ore to the surface at the Santa Rita mine 150 years ago.

Today the huge open pit mine in southwestern New Mexico is too big even for the economical use of railroads to haul ore from the bottom of the mine. more than a mile deep.

The answer to the problem of getting the ore and waste out of the ground is a fleet of 25 giant trucks, so big they dwarf anything seen on the highway.

The first of the three million dollars worth of trucks arrived during July and conversion from rail hauling is to be completed by the end of the year. Replacing the electric trains that slowly worked their way up the side of the mine are 22 trucks of 62 tons and three of 85 ton capacity.

The larger vehicles are driven by electric motors set in the rear wheels, which get power from a diesel engine near the cab. The 62-ton trucks have diesel engines more powerful than those on a bus. Both types of trucks have two-man crews and instrument panels resemble airplane cockpits more than automobile dashboards. Each costs nearly $100,000.

Main advantage of the use of trucks is that they climb a steeper grade than the railroad, thus getting the ore to the surface faster. The tracks of the railroad could slope upward no more than 2 per cent, while the trucks can climb grade.

The round - trip by truck takes about half an hour from the deepest part of the mine, which resembles a gigantic ice cream cone in the ground. The trains took five times as long for the trip.

Maintenance of the roads along the stair-step sides of the mine, also is much less costly than the care of the 50 miles of railroad track which had to be relocated periodically as the mine expanded.

The vast Chino Mine, run by the Kennecott Copper Corp., no longer contains the rich ore that was found in 1803 by Lt. Col. Jose Manuel Carrasco, who sold his Santa Rita claim a year later to Don Francisco Elguea.

Even when the first large scale open pit mining began around 1910 the burnt orange earth at Santa Rita produced more than 10 per cent copper ore.

Now the ore from the bottom of the 5,900 foot deep hole is about .08 per cent copper. A force of 1,470 men daily mines and mills 22,500 tons of ore to get about 200 tons of copper.

Another system used to bring the ore to the surface is a $2.25 million "skip" haulage system installed a year ago. The only train to be left at the mine will take ore from the skip and trucks to the assembly yard, where standard size trains of the Santa Fe Railroad transport it to the mill at Hurley, N. M., about nine miles to the south.

Tracks of the "skip" slant at about a 30 degree angle into the mine with two counterbalanced ore cars capable of carrying 40 tons of ore each. A pulley device powered by electricity pulls the cars.

E. A. Slover, general manager of the Chino mine, said in an interview the combination of truck and skip haulage will allow the Santa Rita operation to stay in business for some time to come.

"The world sets the price for copper," Slover said "How long we keep going depends on the costs and returns."

Frank G. Woodruff, mines plant superintendent, is enthusiastic about the work of the new trucks. Smaller trucks already have been used successfully.

TV Traffic Control Experiment Shows Americans Basically Good

DETROIT (UPI)—The American motorist is basically a good Samaritan.

That was one of the facts learned in a two-year experiment conducted to determine the feasibility of freeway traffic control by television.

The project measured traffic flow on 3.2 miles of busy Detroit freeway by remote control television cameras.

The cameras flashed pictures of traffic conditions to 14 monitoring sets and trained observers made command decisions concerning speed and flow of traffic.

Traffic signs were posted over the lanes of the John Lodge Expressway that indicated the best speed, which lanes were blocked and which were open.

"We have proven through overhead control that we can increase freeway capacity and move more traffic at a steady rate," State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said.

Mackie said the television control system has been a tremendous research tool in such areas as driver behavior and shoulder usage.

"Contrary to common belief," he said, "the American driver is a good Samaritan. When cars stall or pull to the shoulder it doesn't take too long until another motorist stops to offer help."

The project is financed through September and negotiations are in progress with the Bureau of Public Roads to extend the period of the experiment.

The government paid about 80 per cent of the original $400,000 outlay. The Michigan Highway Department and the Detroit Street and Traffic Department contributed money and personnel.

Operation of the system was simple. The 14 cameras were fixed at strategic points along the expressway. The traffic expert at the monitor was able to determine conditions the length of the route and he controlled the overhead signs.

The signs consisted of arrows lighted green for "go," X's lighted red for "stop" and numbers that indicated the best speed for the lanes.

If an accident were to occur, the director could close one lane and slow down traffic in others to allow the orderly shift from lane-to-lane by drivers. He also could notify police, ambulances and wreckers so that the trouble could be remedied quickly.

Traffic engineer George Basmadjian of the Detroit Street and Traffic Department did much work on the project.

The key to the television control, he said, is how well the motorists obey the signals.

"In general, when we do have blockage and put up a red light it is observed quite well," he said. "The speed signs are not always fully satisfied and this is an area in which we want to do more extensive research.

"We've had some objections when we closed the ramps but this was to be expected to some extent. It hasn't been too great as long as there is good reason for closing the ramps and there always is."

IN WASHINGTON, D.C. today for the formal presentation of the portrait of the late admiral Edward Eberle is Mrs. Edward R. Eberle of Providence, R.I. Mrs. Eberle, who visited six weeks with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Admiral Eberle, Mrs. Rothrock's grandfather, was commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet during World War I. Later he was chief of Naval Operations. Early in his Navy career he was superintendent of the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis.

The portrait was requested by the Naval Historical Section, which plans to have in its gallery all the famed commanders in the Navy. The gallery is in the Pentagon near the offices of the Secretary of the Navy. Also in Washington today for the unveiling are Mrs. Rothrock's brother, Commander Edward R. Eberle Jr. (USN., rtd.) of Mystic, Conn. and his fourteen-year-old daughter, Susan.

While Mrs. Eberle was here she and the Rothrocks went to Santa Barbara to visit relatives. Mrs. Rothrock entertained for her mother at a luncheon, which was a brilliant finale to the summer season at Marin Art and Garden Center. There were also several small luncheons and dinner parties at the Rothrock home so their friends could meet Mrs. Eberle.

FROM LOS ANGELES invitations were mailed to a birthday dinner being held in Marin County. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Meyer of Groverton Place, Los Angeles are giving the dinner for Jerome Newbauer who recently moved to San Rafael from Southern California. The invitations say the dinner will be held at Deerpark Villa, Fairfax, Oct. 9. And below the invitation are the words "No gifts please."

A ROUND ROBIN letter is being sent by George Whitney Jr. of Belvedere to relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gilman of Ross telling of the change of travel plans of the Gilmans, who are on a around-the-world tour. George, brother of Mrs. Gilman, talked with her on the telephone and learned the itinerary has been changed. The Gilmans found the Scandinavian countries too cold and so will travel on the southern part of the continent, going to Spain, Germany and Italy. They'll fly to Greece, Cairo, Beirut, Iran, New Delhi, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Honolulu. They'll be back in Ross in mid-October.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney and their two small sons, Dana, 4, and Scott, 2, will give the travelers a royal welcome when they return.

The old fashioned look comes back to the classroom this fall with the grey worsted-look jumpers of wrinkle resistant Arnel triacetate and rayon. Left, the clover wrap-around apron-like jumper flatters the tiny, typical or tall. The calico blouses coordinate in red, black and gold foulard print.

POTENTIAL Picassos and day-school daubers enjoy this mock-smock fashion or Arnel triacetate and rayon which keeps it smooth and wiltfree through trial by child's play. It's a Kate Greenaway style.

Measles Vaccines Are Proven Effective Against Disease

Measles, one of the most common of childhood diseases, strikes thousands of California children each year. Always uncomfortable, the disease and its complications can be serious. The death rate from measles is higher than from polio, and the consequences of encephalitis, one of its possible complications, can be damaging.

It is a major milestone, therefore, that two highly effective vaccines for measles are now available: one a live virus vaccine, and one an inactivated or "skilled" virus. Both vaccines provide protection against measles; each has its individual advantages and limitations. Your family doctor can best make the decision concerning which vaccine to use for the members of your family.

THE LIVE VIRUS vaccine is produced through growth in various tissue culture systems. As a result, its capacity to produce the disease is very limited, but it is highly effective in producing immunity.

The major advantage of this type of vaccine is that a single injection provides long-lasting immunity—possibly for a lifetime. Offsetting this is the disadvantage that about 80 per cent of the children who are given it will develop the symptoms of a mild form of measles about a week later. Since almost all children would get measles at any rate, and since the vaccine-produced measles is almost always far milder that the disease in its natural form, this is generally considered to be a well-warranted risk.

GAMMA GLOBULIN containing measles antibodies is sometimes given along with live virus measles vaccine. This combination prevents most evidences of infection and provides protection against future exposures, although the immunity may be less permanent than when the live virus vaccine is used alone.

Live virus vaccine is not given to pregnant women, persons with leukemia, persons with lymphoma or other generalized malignancy, those undergoing treatment with cortisone or similar agents which weaken resistance, those who have recently received gamma globulin, infants under 9 months of age, and those who are allergic to egg protein (the vaccine is produced in chick embryo tissue culture).

THE KILLED VIRUS vaccine is given in three injections at monthly intervals, followed, at least during childhood, by periodic booster shots. Its chief advantage is that it produces very little disease-like reaction, and its major limitation is that the protection it provides may decline after a year or so unless reinforced by booster.

The killed vaccine is recommended especially for those persons who would be vulnerable to serious complications of the disease, including those with chronic heart disease and those with such pulmonary diseases as cystic fibrosis and asthma.

Doctors are not satisfied with providing short-range immunization that protects a person during childhood but, in effect, postpones the attack of measles until the adult years. They are hopeful that the two types of measles vaccine can be combined, so that the advantages of prolonged immunity without unpleasant reaction are possible. They have been impressed with the results of giving two successive doses of killed virus, followed three to six months later by a single dose of live virus vaccine. This may eventuall be the formula which is generally followed.

WHO SHOULD BE IMMUNIZED? All children between the ages of 9 months to one year who have not already had measles. Adults rarely need to be vaccinated because most of them have had measles in childhood, and once you have had the disease, you are almost certainly immune for life.

Author Considered An Expert

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whether he likes it or not, Irving Wallace has become an expert on American women.

Ever since he wrote "The Chapman Report," a yarn about an admittedly fictional survey of feminine sex habits, the gentle-mannered man has somehow become, to many damsels—some in distress—a spokesman and champion.

WOMEN READERS have phoned him from great disdistances for advice on problems stemming from love and marriage. At parties, women cluster about him the way bees cozy up to the hive. Most of their questions concern affairs of the heart.

It's an old story, he says, to be asked, by a complete stranger, why he picked on her and wrote about her as a character in his book.

Whatever its value as literature — critics disagreed—"The Chapman Report" certainly made women readers consider Wallace an ex-officio authority on their emotions.

Their conviction is bound to become even stronger with Wallace's new novel — "The Three Sirens." This book begins where "The Chapman Report" left off in its astute consideration of the problems of women, the author says.

Through a new cast of characters, Wallace examines some of the major problems currently bedeviling countless females in contemporary times.

AMONG HIS TOPICS:

—The Plight of the Homely Woman. Wallace believes that in contemporary society, the female who is physically unattractive simply doesn't get a fair deal. The Moreal Code teaches that it's wrong to waste human lives. We work and spend to see that physically and mentally handicapped individuals achieve maximum usefulness. Yet, Wallace says, many perfectly normal women are denied the right to function as women, simply because they are physically unattractive.

—The Dominating Mother. This isn't the old silver-chord theme. It is an altogether different one, made pertinent by the ever-increasing number of mothers in our society who have successful careers. Two of the leading characters in "The Three Sirens" are a successful female anthropologist and her son. She is warm and charming—but because she is a woman, and successful, her son has become warped.

—The Aging Beauty. Another character is a wealthy and beautiful woman who has just undergone what she considers a major tragedy. She has turned 40. Wallace studies her —with sympathy.

Newlyweds To Reside In San Diego

The First Baptist Church in San Anselmo was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Tommie Jean DiPietro of San Rafael and Eugene William Andrews of San Anselmo. The Rev. Jerald Traeger officiated at the rite, for which the bride was given in marriage by her step-father, Paul DiPietro of San Rafael.

She recited vows in a gown of white organza over taffeta with bouffant skirt ending in a chapel length train. Swedish embroidered applique trimmed the gown.

Tommie's sister, Shirley DiPietro, was maid of honor wearing a ballerina length dress of sapphire blue satin with modified bell skirt.

Other attendants were Betty Brawdy of San Rafael, Karla Spector of San Quentin, the bride's other sister, Joyce DiPietro of San Rafael and Babette Andrews of San Anselmo, sister of the bridegroom.

Their dresses were similar to Shirley's. The bride's little sister, Jeri Ann DiPietro, was the flower girl.

Lawrence Andrews of Palo Alto was best man for his brother, and escorting guests to seats were Robert G. Guetersloh of San Francisco, Lawrence Major and Marvin Stauts of San Rafael, Thomas Grose of Pasadena and Jim Tucker.

A reception was given at the San Rafael Improvement Club, and the couple left on a three week trip to Carmel and Yosemite.

Tommie was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended the College of Marin. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Carter of Shreveport, La., and Mrs. Rose DiPietro of San Francisco. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul DiPietro of San Rafael.

A Sir Francis Drake High School graduate, Eugene is currently serving with the U.S. Navy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Andrews Jr. of San Anselmo and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Small, Mrs. Pearle Andrews and M. T. Andrews, all of San Francisco.

The couple will live in San Diego where the bridegroom is stationed.

Miss Taylor, former San Francisco Musical Club scholarship winner, has sung roles with the San Francisco Opera Company and recently returned from a three year concert tour of Canada and the East Coast. She will sing the role of the Old Maid.

Packing Is Art Of Selectivity

Packing for a trip is an art of selectivity, the ability to make luggage contents a miniature home base of the items most important for your needs. Here are four tips for efficient pre-trip preparation:

1. Absolute alone-ness while packing. No matter how excited you are, this is the time to be firm so that you can concentrate without distraction.
2. Use a memo pad to jot down reminders starting at least a week before you leave.
3. When your travel agent helps plan your trip, ask him for a set of airline booklets for women which give valuable information on wardrobes, shopping, weather, saving money, and sightseeing.

State Brain-Wash Effort Is Worthy Of Hitler

Who said Hitler was dead? Maybe he just moved to Sacramento!

So incredible is the state legal requirement against which the Sausalito City Council some time ago expressed objection, and in which it has now enlisted aid of the county counsel, that few people seem to understand it.

Here is the basic fact, tied in with the new one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax which everybody including the people of Sausalito started to pay as of yesterday:

No apportionment of the take will be made to any city or county unless, in the words of the law, "it has adopted a resolution stating that it approves the imposition of the additional highway taxes and fees . . . and that it desires such apportionments to be made to it."

This is very foxy and totally un-American. It tries to preclude fair sharing of the tax money by tying to it a brain-washing initial stipulation some may not be able to make in good conscience.

What's more, injury is added to insult by a further provision that any cities or counties which don't qualify by perhaps perjuring themselves, in case they express approval of something they do not in fact approve, lose their share of the new income which "shall be available for apportionment" to the cities and counties obedient to the whip-crack.

Whether it was right to boost the state tax from six to seven cents a gallon is strictly a matter of opinion. Every American is supposed to have a right to his opinion without penalty.

Sausalito's city council formed an unfavorable opinion and on Sept. 3 expressed doubts—"a slap in the face" was how Mayor Paul Micou expressed it, while Councilman Michael Harris said "This is thought control."

After further reflection the council decided Sept. 17 that it would be "untruthful" to voice approval and voted against such expression. Later it decided to ask supervisors' permission to have county counsel address a query to the state attorney general and this was given last week.

The question was pointed, inquiring whether Sausalito's council must "state untruthfully that it agrees with the Collier-Unruh Act in order to permit citizens to receive the benefits for which the tax is imposed."

Properly did Councilman Carl W. Gabrielson describe the state action as an effort to "ram this down our throats." It was far from a joke when Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker said the next thing might be an enforced signature of a loyalty oath in favor of the Brown Administration. In logic, what's to stop it?

There is no way for Sausalitans or anybody else to avoid paying the tax, therefore there should be no way for the state to avoid giving benefits thus paid for. A good many people think they object to Social Security until they become entitled to collect. So far as we know Uncle Sam has never considered denying payments to these people.

Sausalito has raised an issue of real importance to anybody who believes in the United States as the home of basic freedoms.

Oriental Moon Festival Is Tonight

As the full moon rises tonight, Moon Festival is celebrated wherever groups of Orientals gather, including Marin.

Based on the old Chinese lunar calendar, it falls in the middle of the Chinese month of August. It is also called Mid-Autumn Festival. Moon Festival's exact origin is lost in antiquity and legend, but we are certain it began as a harvest celebration in ancient China.

Moon Festival resembles Thanksgiving in being a time of quiet family feasting, usually with chicken or duck and moon cakes. The beauty of the moon is contemplated, and in Japan families go for strolls to enjoy the moonlit autumn countryside.

It is a completely happy celebration.

World Diplomacy Finds Self In Suspended Animation

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

PERHAPS NOT since the weeks immediately following the end of World War II has world diplomacy hung as now in such a state of suspended animation.

The cold war is still with us and major issues remain, but new elements have entered the picture to obscure the once sharp lines dividing the world into two camps.

The Communist world has discovered there is no such thing as co-equal dictators and the struggle for leadership has divided the Soviet Union and Red China.

Changes also have come to the Western world, once secure in its Atlantic Pact and aiming toward a united Europe spurred by the impetus of a new prosperity under the European common market.

NEITHER THE Communist world nor western Europe are quite sure where they are going, and for the United States the direction each finally will take is a matter of vital concern.

Within the broad framework, other elements also are bringing about changes.

In Europe there has been the gradual decline of the conservative parties which for years have ruled the destinies of the major powers and a stronger voice for socialism in Britain, West Germany and Italy.

Pres. Charles de Gaulle of France stands almost alone as a towering remnant of the past.

And it is the collision between this towering remnant of the past and what other western leaders regard as the course of the future which today leads to a reassessment of western policy, military, economic and political.

STILL ANOTHER force at work is the growing industrial might of nations now fully recovered from the damages of war.

As industries of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany reach or surpass the ability to over-produce, they look longingly at markets within the Soviet Union. Similarly, Japan looks upon Red China.

And agriculturally, as both Canada and Australia profit from wheat sales to the Soviet Union and Red China, the United States is led to review its own policies.

THE CHALLENGES which produced the Sino-Soviet break and uncertainties in the western world have had other side effects, which scarcely seemed possible as recently as a year ago.

The United States and Russia are aligned against Red China on the side of India.

Meanwhile in the American hemisphere, Cuba, although dependent upon the Soviet Union economically, politically sides with Red China in its attempts to export violent revolution.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Needs A Transit Group

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Experts generally agree that rail rapid transit provides the most efficient system for alleviating a community's traffic congestion. A majority of the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, with their decision to refuse passage of trains over the bridge, precluded Marin County from the opportunity of using this means of solving its transportation dilemma. In fact, a reversal of this unfortunate decision at this time may prove to be too late and ineffectual due to the obstacles which must now be overcome.

In view of the conditions which exist today, a study should commence immediately of those facilities now available and of those which can be constructed and financed. An outline of a workable solution, which I believe worthy of study, is presented below:

1. To build a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge to increase its capacity for automobiles and buses,

2. To improve the Marin approaches by constructing a parallel highway on the west side of the existing road (on government lands) from the bridge to Richardson Bay and then by means of an overhead roadway, aesthetically designed, to San Rafael along the existing right-of-way:

(a) New construction would not include any "on" or "off" ramps and would serve northern Marin and through traffic,

(b) Emergency exits could be provided at Greenbrae, Alto and Sausalito,

(c) An extra lane at steep inclines would be necessary for slow vehicles — buses, trucks and compact cars,

(d) If a second deck is restricted to less than six lanes, traffic on the new freeway would be reversed twice each day to coincide with the direction of the heavy flow, and

(e) The existing Highway 101 would serve the traffic from Sausalito to San Rafael (and that from northern Marin during "off" hours if the number of lanes must be restricted on the bridge),

3. To connect the Golden Gate Bridge with San Francisco's freeway system:

(a) By means of a tunnel under Pacific Heights,

(b) A depressed roadway to the embarcadero freeway, and

(c) The conversion of Park Presidio Blvd. to a freeway,

4. To pass legislation establishing a Marin County Transit District:

(a) Provide for subsidies from Golden Gate Bridge revenues and from County taxes,

(b) Set fares that are reasonably low,

(c) Obtain buses that are air conditioned, spacious, fast and comfortable, and

(d) Adopt a transit charter which will provide for installation of "tomorrow's" modes of travel—helicopter and hydrofoil—when they are determined to be economically feasible,

5. To construct a system of secondary roads, such as Sir Francis Drake Blvd., San Pedro Road, Tiburon Highway, etc, connecting Highway 101 with residential areas, and

6. To inaugurate a system of one - way toll collections (northbound) on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Since no single measure will remedy Marin County's transportation problem, a workable solution must consider all facets of a feasible plan as well as to negate allegations of proposed projects which are neither engineeringly nor economically possible. Based upon the materials and statistics available to a layman, the solution to Marin's transportation dilemma, as presented above, is the conclusion reached from the following data:

1. While Marin County's population growth is at a comparatively high rate, the magnitude of this growth is relatively small.

2. Due to the topography, no deep water ports nor suitable railroad connections, the county will probably never support a great deal of Industry and will be forced to maintain its rural characteristics—desired by most people anyway.

3. Since Marin County has been excluded from the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, it does not appear reasonable to expect our neighboring counties at some future date to encumber themselves for another $130,000,000 to construct the Marin Transit Line. With approximately $330,000,000 total assessed valuation, the county does not appear to have the bonding capacity to proceed on its own.

4. Except for a newly constructed bridge, there is no other way to bring rapid transit trains to Marin. The directors of the Golden Gate Bridge have rejected the use of rails. A subaqueous transit tube has been discarded because of excessive construction costs, great depths of water, and the topography of adjacent shores. The Richmond - San Rafael Bridge is considered to be inadequate to withstand the proposed rapid transit loads in addition to the proposed highway loadings. The suggested East Bay approach to Marin via a parallel Bay Bridge to Treasure Island, then by causeway to Richmond, must be declined, since a parallel bridge cannot be financed without utilizing revenues from the existing Bay Bridge. These revenues have already been encumbered to finance the construction of the transit tube from San Francisco to Oakland.

5. The half billion dollar San Quentin - San Francisco freeway - causeway - bridge via the Tiburon Peninsula and Angel Island does not appear to be financially feasible from solely bridge revenues, even though it may be the ideal route. A bridge under construction from Staten Island to Long Island, slightly longer than the Golden Gate Bridge, is costing in excess of three hundred million dollars; consequently, a half billion dollar estimate may be low when the total construction and right-of-way costs are considered.

6. The Golden Gate Bridge is congested on week days from 7 to 9 a.m. (southbound), 4 to 6 p.m. (northbound) and on Sunday evenings (southbound) If a workable solution for these time periods can be achieved, the bridge capacity at all other hours and days of the week will be sufficient for many years.

7. San Franciscans returning from weekend recreational trips are responsible for the heaviest load on the Golden Gate Bridge for any given time. Neither rapid transit nor buses would be acceptable for these travelers. It behooves San Francisco supervisors to assist with provisions for a satisfactory solution, such as approving suitable approaches in San Francisco and a second deck to help accommodate their own citizens.

8. Due to various reasons, Greyhound bus service for Marin County has not improved. In fact, patronage has declined while the total number of commuters has increased. A County subsidized bus system, providing comfort, convenience and low fares, would probably cost less than the tax revenues that would be lost from confiscated properties if another freeway were constructed the length of Marin County.

9. Vehicle ownerships are growing at a rate twice as fast as that of population. Moreover, vehicle travel is increasing at a rate of three times as much. In rural Marin, we must build the roads to accommodate this traffic. Even rapid transit would not change our driving habits a great deal. Experts predict only five percent of the total travel would be on rapid transit.

10. A Master Transportation Plan must be accomplished before Golden Gate Bridge revenues are diverted to other purposes or reduced.

To a large degree, the kinds of transportation facilities that are constructed will influence where people will live, where they will work and where they will play. In order to participate in determining our own destiny, the people of Marin County should insist upon its own commission to study transportation. Such a commission would accelerate and determine the course of study at the local level and would provide guidance and counsel for the Marin County representatives to serve on the Bay Area Commission being established.

Rafferty Doesn't Feel Schools Can Solve All Negro Problems

SACRAMENTO (C N S) — Probably the sanest approach to alleged "de facto" segregation in California schools was voiced by Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of schools, in an address to the professional conference of the staff of the state department of education recently.

In contrast to the approach of some who would seek to eliminate "de facto" segregation by hauling Negro students from the district in which they reside to another district, just to help equalize the number of students who are black and who are white, Dr. Rafferty said this would create an artificial ratio of Negroes to Caucasians.

He declared that he "hates racial prejudice" but said "I don't believe we are going to eliminate it by creating an artificial ratio of Negroes to Caucasians by bussing the students around."

PROPOSALS in the last legislature were made to the effect that Negro students should be taken by bus to schools in districts other than the districts in which they lived.

Dr. Rafferty said if this were done, many students would be hauled over freeways to attend a certain school, and thus would miss out on many extra-curricular activities. Parent conferences would be out the window, and Parent-Teacher membership would be threatened.

He pointed out that some schools are completely segregated, but said he does not believe the state is going to eliminate this sort of segregation by use of busses.

THE SCHOOLS, he said, should not be made a pawn in the segregation battle for the simple reason that the problem is actually larger than the schools.

School districts can help, he said, by redrawing lines in some instances, as well as in the placing of new schools. In the final analysis, however, he emphasized the fact that students should attend schools in the districts in which they live, regardless of race, creed or color.

"We are going to help lick the problem of integration," he declared, "but we cannot sacrifice the principles of good education to solve a problem which originated outside of us, and over which we have no control."

He declared he would rather see the brains of the country devoted to solving the neighborhood problems of segregation, rather than to use the schools to solve such problems.

ACTUALLY, in California, the problem is wholly minimal with the exception of a few instances. Some schools in urban areas are predominantly Negro, simply because of the fact that they are located in districts in which Negroes live.

And if local school districts draw lines so that the Negroes will all land in one school, then the problem is at the local school district level rather than at the state level.

Thus, the question is why should local taxpayers go to more expense to break down the ratios, when all students are being offered education at the same level? It would be a great expense on taxpayers to buy more transportation, and maintain it, to transport Negro students to other schools as well as to break down their chances for better education. For when the transported Negro student returns to his area of residence, there still are the same problems he has to meet.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Chief Justice Goldberg Kennedy Running-Mate?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Those frequent private meetings of President Kennedy and Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg are far more political than social.

Intimates of Justice Goldberg say that these backstage White House talks involve the exciting possibility that the former cabinet member might be tapped as the president's running mate in 1964.

While no firm offer or commitment was given Justice Goldberg in these conversations, President Kennedy discussed frankly two political developments that would cause him to look for a new running mate.

ONE DEVELOPMENT would be a personal decision by Vice President Lyndon Johnson to boost his political fortunes for 1968 in another government or private role and not seek re-election with President Kennedy.

The other development would involve a situation where public opinion polls would indicate a close election and that Johnson's presence on the ticket would not increase the president's chances of winning.

According to these sources, the president assured Goldberg that he would seriously consider him as a possible running-mate if either of these political situations developed. Justice Goldberg's reply was a simple one—he is ready to do whatever the president wants.

THE NEW STRATEGY — A native of Chicago, Justice Goldberg's presence on the 1964 Democratic ticket would fit perfectly into the new political strategy being hammered out at the party's secret deliberations.

As approved by President Kennedy, this strategy calls for major Democratic efforts to increase the party's vote in all the northern industrial areas to offset expected Republican gains in the South.

As a former Secretary of Labor and general counsel of the AFL-CIO, Goldberg has strong ties and is extremely popular with labor and Jewish organizations in all major cities.

Whether Vice President Lyndon Johnson would ever consider stepping aside for another candidate or President Kennedy would risk a party-splitting fight to ask him to step down is highly debatable. Aides of Johnson insist that the Vice President will be on the 1964 ticket regardless of what developments occur before the Democratic Convention opens in Atlantic City in August.

THE GOP STORY—Women will have more official say at the 1964 Republican convention than at any previous one.

That's the report that Mrs. Clare B. Williams, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, is circulating among GOP women workers.

She reveals that rules governing the '64 convention put one woman delegate from each state on the four main committees that carry on the convention's work: Platform, Rules, Credentials, and Permanent Organizations.

According to Mrs. Williams, if the GOP women exert themselves their new committee assignments will give them considerable influence on the selection of the 1964 GOP nominees.

Supporters of Senator Goldwater believe that this rules change, made in 1960, will help their candidates when delegates meet next July in San Francisco.

Society Note: How One Pays Call At 'Bastille-On-The-Bay'

IF ONE is calling at San Quentin Prison for some newspaper task presumably connected with the public welfare, one presents credentials at the East Gate and then rolls grandly through to park one's car inside.

With luck and a really impressive errand such as a talk with the warden, one may park up before the warden's office. If the job is merely to see the flame of some wretch's life flicker out in the prison gas chamber, access to a big interior parking lot is provided.

But if the caller is on private affairs such as a call on an inmate, to whom he has official accreditation as friend or relative, he parks outside. He then presents himself at the gate-house to sign in with name, address and hour of arrival.

THEN COMES a long but usually attractive walk to the Electronics Gate where all metal of consequence must be removed from the person and inspected before proceeding the short additional distance to the reception anteroom. No jackknives or even pipe reamers are passed.

In good weather the distance of perhaps a block and a half (by "outside" terms) is brightened by sparkling Bay waters not far below, attractive flowers and succulents by the sidewalk, and on the right hand a succession of buildings such as the fire department, car service area and a recreation hall for special occasions, near the warden's office.

Only in the waiting room of the reception building does one suddenly realize that this is an eery out-of-ordinary experience, and even there the idea takes a while to sink in.

EVERYBODY INSIDE except for the reception desk official and an inmate hobby shop attendant is waiting to see some prisoner — literally a "captive host."

Is every caller always welcome? I fear that may well be the case.

Expect, in the anteroom, a pleasant enough atmosphere. The benches are pretty hard after the first 20 minutes, which may stretch to 45, but there's always a stack of free copies of the San Quentin News to be read to accompaniment of soft music.

(Never shall I forget the sight of a tiny colored baby flat on its back, its bottle abandoned and the News held outstretched above its eyes. When mama noticed she saw nothing funny.)

THROUGHOUT the room are people sitting and waiting. A good many are Negro. Some appear to have come from a distance; they show the signs of travel and unfamiliarity. Everyone is neatly attired. Some of the younger prettier women are heartbreaking to look at yet one can't say why.

From time to time a name is uttered over a loudspeaker. One or two people—perhaps carrying infants — rise and move up some steps at the right to enter the main reception room.

They see the inmate they seek moving into the room from the left. A guard indicates chairs on either side of a table.

In greeting, it is permissible to shake hands, to clasp a babe in arms, to kiss. A sign warns, however, that no hand-holding across the table is allowed. One may not exchange anything, nor read aloud.

After a while one observes that there is a solid partition under the table. Knees of visitors and visited do not touch.

IT IS ALL most quiet, orderly and restrained. At times a few quiet tears are shed. No one peeks.

Even by intent, it seems impossible to look about curiously in this room. All are together, yet privacy is guaranteed by the sheer instinct of human decency.

To me, this room is one of the grimmest places in mostly agreeable Marin County. Yet it is a beautiful place too. One inmate has spoken of it as "an immune area, a sanctuary" where there can be "an hour amnesty of emotional exchange."

The really grim place is a little windowless room opening off to one side. There it is possible to be alone with a condemned inmate under eyes of a watchful guard nearby.

Enter this room once and the other seems good.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

All Octogenarians Should Know How It Happened

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was in 1942 that I got my first job as a newspaper reporter, but I can remember it as clearly as if it had happened in 1943.

One day the city editor sent me out to interview a citizen who was celebrating his 89th birthday. And that almost wrecked my career before it even started.

As everyone knows, when you interview an octogenarian you always ask him the secret of his longevity. He replies that he owes his long life to the fact that he chewed tobacco, or chased after girls, or slept with his shoes on, or something equally scientific.

BUT WHEN I asked this old geezer how he had managed to live so long, he crossed me up.

"I haven't the faintest idea," he said.

That evening at sunset the paper suspended my paste-pot privileges for a week. And I got off easy. The maximum penalty for booting an assignment of that sort is being fed feet first through a web press.

Since then, if I do say so myself, my reportorial technique has vastly improved. Earlier this month, for instance, I exclusively disclosed how Marlene Dietrich manages to keep looking so youthful.

AT A cocktail party in her honor, I discovered that Miss Dietrich grows younger looking by the drink.

And now, heaping scoop upon scoop, I am prepared to reveal Cary Grant's secret of eternal youth.

Grant was in the capital recently to help publicize a fund raising drive to aid children who are forced for economic reasons to drop out of school.

A feature of the campaign will be a benefit preview of his latest movie, called "Charade."

In the course of his visit, Grant and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy toured a junior high school where drop-outs have been a problem.

HE WAS SOMEWHAT surprised to find that the students were great fans of his. In their view, he was almost as "cool" as this week's teenage folk singer.

Sensing that I had stumbled upon something big, I asked my own 13-year-old daughter if she had ever heard of Cary Grant. She almost blew a fuse at the mention of his name.

"But Cary Grant was my dreamboat when I was her age," my wife said. "How can this be?"

It's simple, really. Modern science has turned the fabled fountain of youth into an actuality.

Better known as "old movies on television."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Keep In Shape To Avoid Asp When Playing Game Of Bridge

History might have been changed if Cleopatra's nose had been one inch longer, and there can be too much of a good thing at the bridget able, too.

A simple operation would have kept South's card in shape in today's hand.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

The defenders took the first three club tricks. East then returned a diamond, and South ruffed with the four of hearts. This fatal play left him with too much of a good thing.

ONLY ENTRY

There was only one entry to dummy—the king of spades. South could take only one finesse through East's queen of hearts.

East eventually made a trump trick, therefore, defeating the contract.

South should make the contract by a simple unblock: he should ruff the diamond with the nine of trumps instead of the four.

Then he leads a spade to dummy's king and lets the eight of hearts ride for a finess.

SUCCESS

The finesse succeeds, and the lead remains in dummy — thanks to the high ruff.

Declarer can lead the seven of hearts from dummy for another finesse. He thus picks up East's trumps without loss and scores his game.

Don't be tempted by the false safety play of leading out the ace of hearts before taking a trump finesse.

PLAY WORKS

This play works if West has the singleton queen of hearts but loses if West has the singleton 6, 5, 3 or 2.

The odds are 4 to 1 in favor of taking two trump finesses instead of playing the ace first and then finessing.

Whichever way South decides to finesse, he can lose nothing by ruffing the first diamond with a high trump.

Creampuffs '62 Buick Skylarks $2695

Here are two of the hardest-to-find used cars on the market today. They are Buick's best seller by far. Both are locally-owned trade-ins that we took in on new '64 Buicks.

One is jet-black with fire engine red all-leather interior. Fully equipped including power steering, power seat, power brks and power windows. A really beautiful car that has had exceptional care by its only owner. Low mileage.

The other is midnight blue with white top. Blue bucket seats and upholstery. Not a mark of wear anywhere on the car. Power steering, automatic, radio, heater, w/w tires and all the Buick luxury items. Sold new and serviced by us since.

Stockpiling Big Problem For Nation

By PATRICK J. SLOYAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When some caveman first piled a few rocks near his den to guard against future attacks, he created history's first critical materials stockpile.

Enlarging on the same idea, the United States now has 8.9 billion dollars worth of strategic materials stockpiled in warehouses across the nation—in case there should be another war.

"It is," as President John F. Kennedy told a news conference Jan. 31, 1962, "an astonishing" collection. Studies he initiated at that time now have produced tentative estimates that more than half of the stockpile is surplus.

But the mere thought of the government dumping the excess has—as one government official put it — "terrorized" foreign nations and U.S. industries producing materials which also go into the stockpile.

"You're a hero when you are buying but a villain when you're selling," said Director Edward A. McDermott of the office of emergency planning, the stockpile chief. It's McDermott's job to balance the stockpile to meet military and industrial needs during a national emergency without playing havoc with commercial markets.

Involved are 76 agricultural and mineral products weighing 50 million tons—everything from sperm whale oil to copper. Most of them—58 items—are metals and minerals.

Enough? Too much? Do we need more?

During that January news conference, the president called the stockpile "excessive" and said the program was "a potential source . . . of unconscionable profits."

Now, almost two years later, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) is about ready to submit a report on an intensive — and sometimes stormy — investigation of the stockpile program.

It didn't take Symington's investigators long to discover they were digging into a complicated and tangled question. The aim of the program, of course, is to make sure that the United States in wartime would have adequate supplies of materials which might be cut off by enemy action.

Among these are aluminum and its key ingredient, bauxite; tungsten, zinc chrome ore, copper, lead, manganese ore, nickel and tin. In fact, these items account for two-thirds of the total U.S. stockpile.

But the problem doesn't stop there. "How much" is as just as important as "what" in building strategic stockpiles. And "how much" depends on "how long will the war last."

Current planning is based on a three-year conventional war. But the spectre of a deadly and swiftly concluded nuclear holocaust has injected an entirely new element into the picture.

McDermott, in an interview, declined to estimate how a short war would affect U.S. stockpiling needs.

"It is premature," he said, "to predict how the picture will be altered."

An inkling of what was to come in modern stockpiling occurred in 1921 when the U.S. Army general staff proposed hoarding 42 items—including 14 which still are stockpiled.

But it wasn't until 1939, as war loomed in Europe, that Congress passed the Strategic Materials Act. It authorized 70 million dollars for purchases of rubber, tin, quartz crystals and chromite.

The program was strengthened in 1946 with passage of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stockpiling Act. Under it, the United States stockpiled 5.4 billion dollars worth of materials. Of this 1.4 billion dollars now is considered surplus.

With the Korean conflict, a new concept of stockpiling came into being—the Defense Production Act. It enabled the government to make or guarantee loans to permit U. S. industries to expand production of critically needed items and provided funds for finding and mining strategic and critical minerals.

To provide incentive, the government sometimes itself had to buy for as long as 10 years materials the firms couldn't sell on the commercial market. Out of thousands of such contracts, the government has only three left. But it accumulated 865 million dollars worth of materials under the program.

Finally, the Agriculture Deportment barters surplus farm production for strategic materials produced by other nations. This, known as the supplemental stockpile, has a 1.1 billion dollars inventory.

One of the first moves by Symington's special Senate stockpile investigating subcommittee was to rip the secret label off the stockpile's operations—a label Symington called "ridiculous, silly and damaging to the taxpayer."

Subsequently subjected to the sharpest scrutiny were the defense production act contracts. The subcommittee spotlighted what it considered some gems of apparent mishandling. For example:

1. The government spent 7.5 million dollars on an experimental nickel plant, but never bought any of the nickel it produced.

2. Government contracts to spur domestic tungsten production resulted in U.S. buying of more tungsten—above market rates—than could be used in 20 years.

3. Thirty-one million dollars was spent for low-grade U.S. chrome ore that the government doesn't want and can't use. "A useless mountain of junk," said one subcommittee member.

"I think we can say," Symington said at the end of the investigation, "we found some fantastic profit taking at a minimum of risk." Of the 76 stickpile items, 72 were found in excess of what was needed.

One reason for the 4.4 billion dollar excess was the change in the estimate of a war's duration. In 1958, the estimate of a five-year was was changed to three years.

Why the stockpile wasn't reduced between 1958 and 1963 is one of the most ticklish questions confronting the government. Kennedy apparently provided a partial answer, however, in announcing the inquiry originally.

"I am very much aware," the president said, "of the intricate and interrelated problems involved in this area, including the difficulties experienced by certain domestic minerals industries. The impact on the world markets and the heavy reliance of certain countries on producing one or more of the minerals.

"And, I can say that we will take no action which will disrupt commodity prices."

Proposed disposal methods include government use of stockpile surpluses directly (nickel and copper for the mint) and indirectly (aluminum for TVA power house generators).

Another way would be to pay off U.S. firms with stockpiled goods for their finished products—a dollar's worth of government tungsten, for example, for a dollar's worth of lightbulbs.

Still another method calls for upgrading stockpile materials. The government might pay a U.S. firm in surplus copper cathode for manufactured high conductivity copper which is needed for the stockpile.

Meanwhile, McDermott said 60 million dollars worth of surplus aluminum will be disposed of over a three-year period as a result of lengthy discussions with aluminum industry officials who basically accepted the plan.

"Nobody's ever completely happy," McDermott said. "But it's a give-and-take situation. You have to respect each other's position.

"These disposals will be discussed with industry representatives. And, the disposals will be slow and orderly—done over a period of several years."

Hub Double Sessions Are Forced

Lack of space has forced double sessions in some classes in the San Anselmo Elementary School District, and in one case, two classes are held in one room, noted Joseph E. Tilt, co-chairman of the San Anselmo Citizens Committee for Schools today.

Tilt and Ernest N. Kettenhofen are leading the campaign for passage at on election Oct. 15 of a $700,000 school construction bond issue, approval of a $500,000 loan from the state and an increase in the maximum tax rate from $1.80 to $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

Bond and loan funds would allow development of the newly purchased Sunny Hills school site, Tilt said. Plans for the first unit call for nine classrooms, a library, multipurpose room and administration facilities.

Funds would also be used for adding three classrooms to the Hidden Valley School.

The increased tax rate would allow the district to hire more teachers, keeping down the number of children per class, Tilt claimed.

It will take a two-thirds vote to approve the bonds, and the state loan is contingent upon approval of the bonds, although the loan requires only a simple majority approval. Majority approval is also sufficient for the tax increase.

"With the present lack of adequate classroom space in schools near their home," Tilt warned, "a number of students have to travel by bus to more distant schools. This places undue burden on the students and costs the school district extra money."

Tilt said the present school population of 2,040 will jump by 400 within five years, but noted the tax hike couldn't go into effect until next year and the new construction wouldn't be completed for two years.

"With new students coming into the community every day our situation will become desperate without new facilities," Tilt said.

HERE, A SCHOOL MAY RISE—Supt. Stephen Parodi (left), Mrs. Doris Harnsbeger of the San Anselmo School District board of trustees and Ernest N. Kettenhofen, co-chairman of citizen committee for the district's school bond-loan campaign, stand on site of future Sunny Hills school and examine site plans. Building of the school hinges on outcome of bond and state loan election on which residents will ballot Oct. 15. (Independent-Journal photo)

ARTS, CRAFTS ROOM

Memorial Gives Juvenile Hall Aid

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

From the ashes of the Marin Youth Assn. has risen a project aimed at rehabilitating children in Juvenile Hall — a project in memory of the association's founder.

Teen-agers at the Juvenile Hall in Lucas Valley this week started using the Abbett room for recreational arts and crafts projects.

The room was opened after being remodeled for $700. The money came largely from the treasury of the defunct organization. The donation was officially made by Mrs. E. B. Abbett of 347 Margarita Drive, San Rafael.

Her son, Fred, had left college to organize the association, she said, because he was worried when he found some of his friends in trouble with the law.

He worked hard at tying the organization together, she added, but then he died unexpectedly, just as several other officers of the group left the community.

The association faltered, but had raised some money earlier. More money was contributed as a memorial to Fred Abbett. Mrs. Abbett, realizing the money was merely gathering interest in a bank, decided to contribute it for a project where it could be used for Marin County teen-agers.

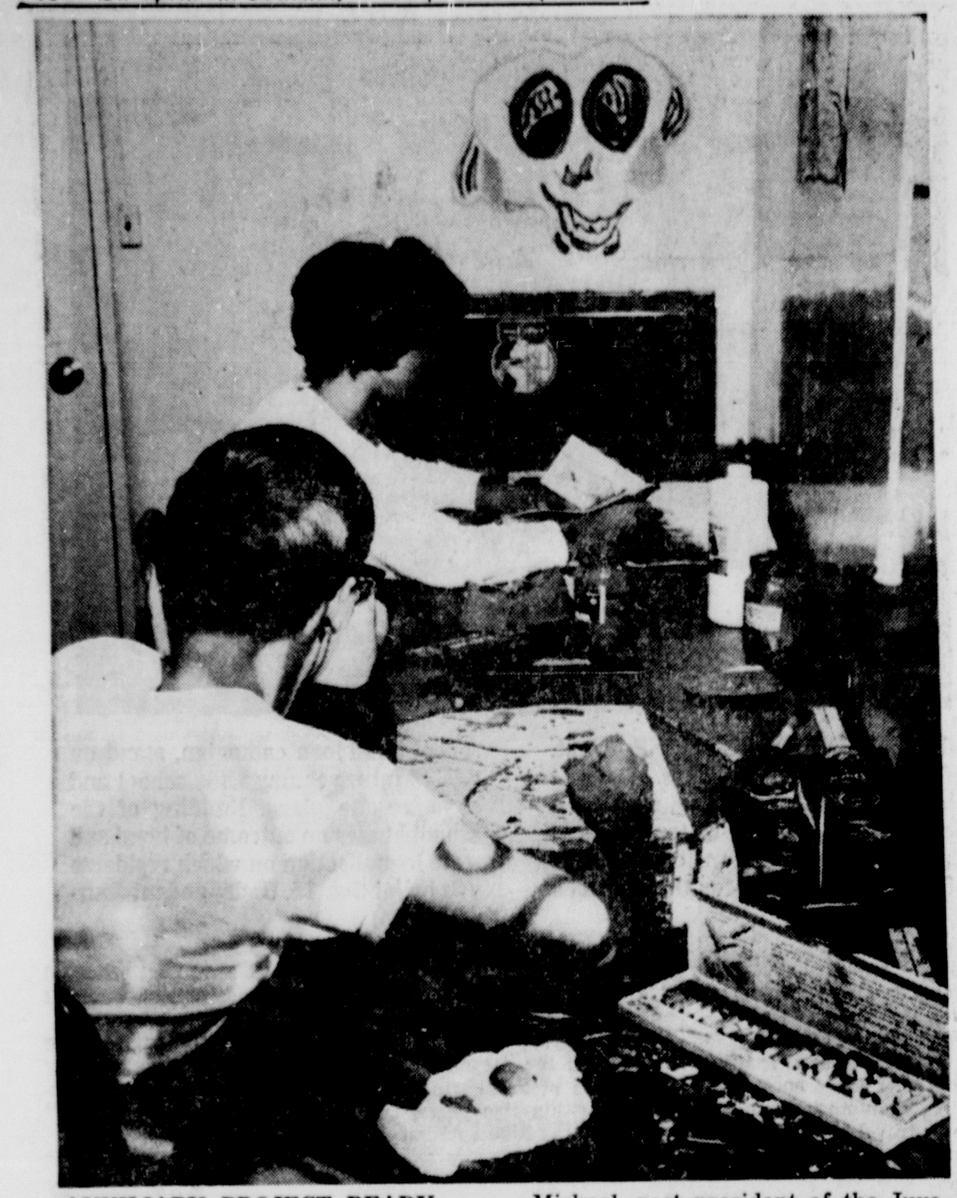
She found enthusiastic support from former members of the association for the project at Juvenile Hall, planned by the Juvenile Hall Auxiliary. A storeroom area was cleared and the money was used for installing cabinets and tables for arts and crafts.

Another $200 has since been contributed to provide supplies for the room.

According to David Fogel, director of the hall, the room will be used for ceramics, painting, collages, leather tooling and other light crafts which do not require elaborate equipment.

It will be solely a recreational facility, apart from the school, which also has an art program. As long as supervising adults are available, the room will be used after school, at nights and on weekends.

A study is now being made by two local specialists in arts and crafts on how the room can best be used. When the study is completed, the auxiliary will get to work to drum up money for tools and supplies.



AUXILIARY PROJECT READY —.... Children at Juvenile Hall use new recreation arts and crafts room made available for their off-school hours, in memory of Fred Abbett. Mrs. Roy M. Michael, past president of the Juvenile Hall Auxiliary, headed the drive to remodel the room at the hall for use. She says more money will be needed to keep the room supplied. H-Bomb Predicted For France By 1966

PARIS (UPI)—The authoritative magazine, National Defense Review, said yesterday that France will have hydrogen bombs in 1966. The prediction indicated French scientists have lopped two years off the original target date for building the H-bomb.

The magazine, published under the sponsorship of the armed forces ministry, also said that by 1966-67 France will have its own Intermediate Range Ballistic Missiles and at least one nuclear submarine.

The disclosure came less than a week after informed sources said President Charles de Gaulle ordered "full steam ahead" on the construction of the French striking force last Wednesday during a top-secret visit to the southeast French nuclear centers of Pierrelatte and Cadarache.

Until now, French H-bombs were expected to be built in 1968 at the earliest.

Further light is expected to be shed on the French nuclear effort during the forthcoming debate in Parliament of the armed forces budget for 1964 which starts Jan. 1.

Parliament started its winter sitting yesterday with a flurry of opposition efforts to constitute a common front against the Gaullist government. The Communists denounced de Daulle's nuclear plans and called for a "popular front" alliance.

College Exec Council Fills 3 Vacancies

Three College of Marin student government vacancies were filled by the executive council at a meeting in Harlan Hall yesterday afternoon.

Loma Schulz of Ross was named to replace William Zimmer of Corte Madera, who had resigned, as publicity commissioner. Katherine Bohanna of San Anselmo succeeds Marilyn Heller of Mill Valley, who had resigned as yell leader.

Carl Jensen of Novato was named to replace Paul Molinari of San Anselmo as head of a subcommittee under the public relations committee to line up career talks on the campus by professional people. Molinari retains his position as parliamentarian.
